No one ever really sees his own environment; to do so would be like trying to capture life or love or beauty and to place it in a bottle. The real world, that part of the universe that makes us each what we are, is like a dream or a painting, curiously out of focus to the eye or mind. We rarely focus our minds on the beauty of the world around us while awake. We find reality difficult to grasp and understand.

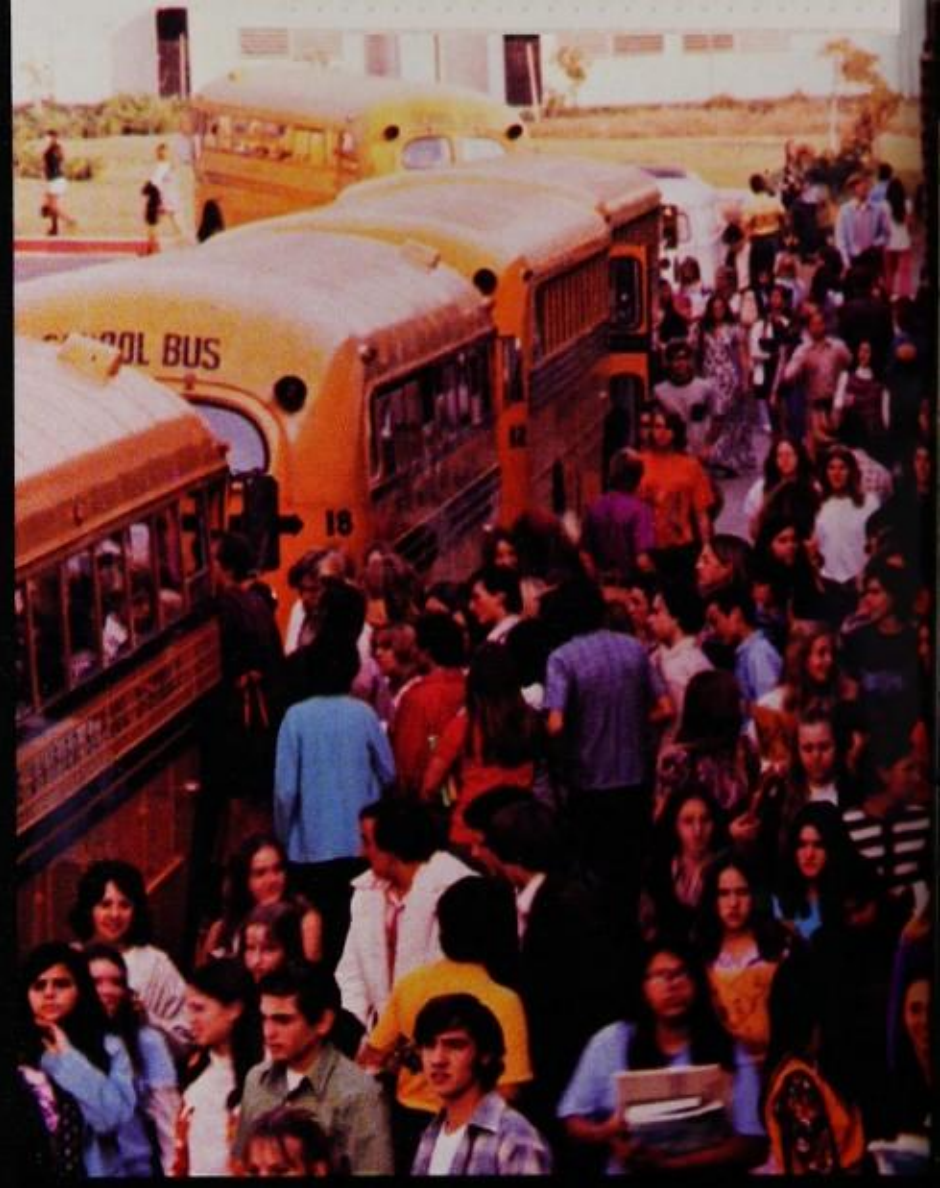
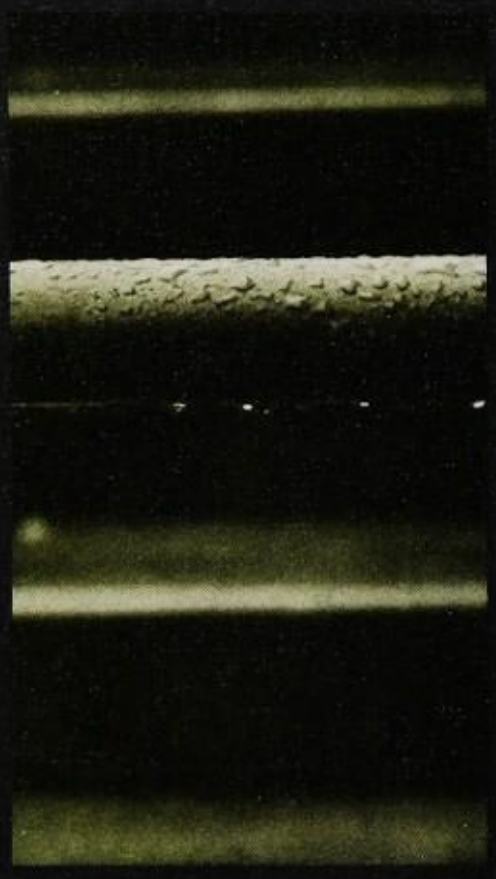
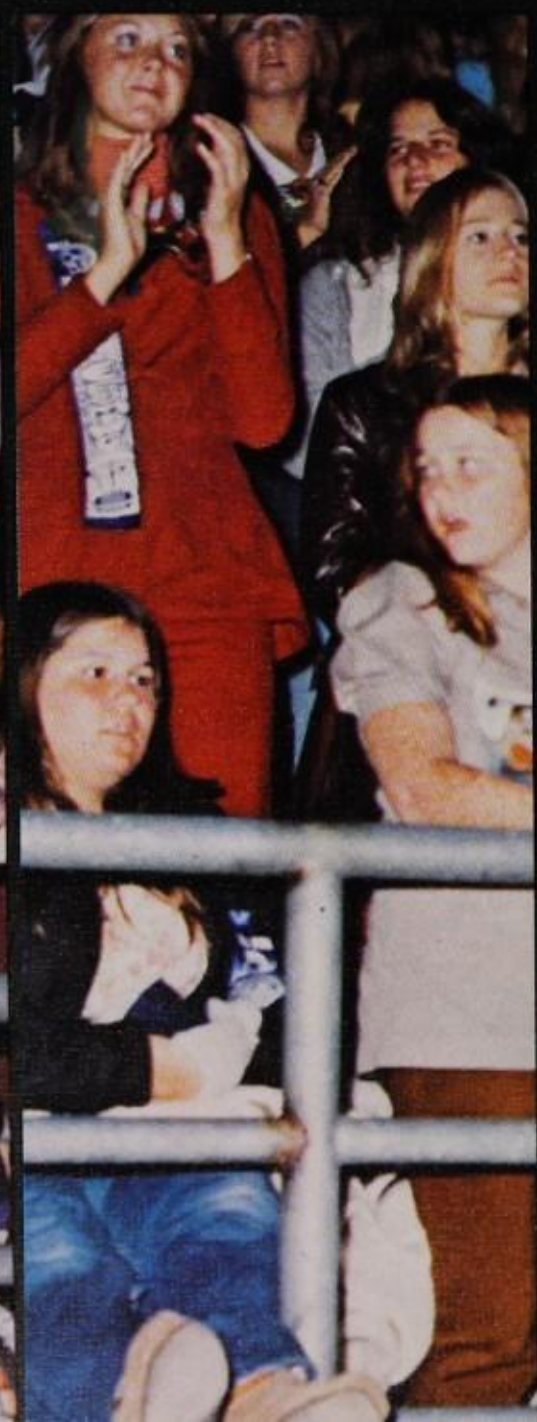
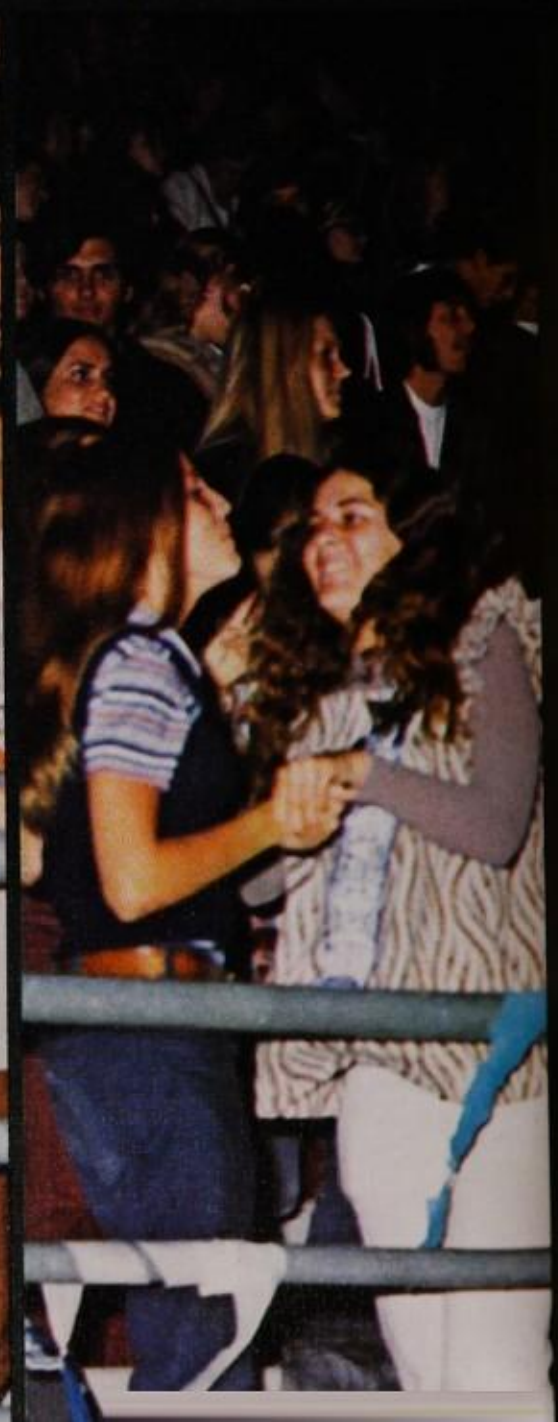
Our world is out of focus, a picture with lines and themes and faces that changes constantly, a blurred background that we live without ever seeing, just as we are invisible to it, lost in a multitude and drowning in humanity. We are people moving in a house of mirrors, where the reflections are distorted by those around us, and the true structure of the building is never seen. We see ourselves through a telephoto lens where the familiar multiplies upon itself and becomes unrecognizable.





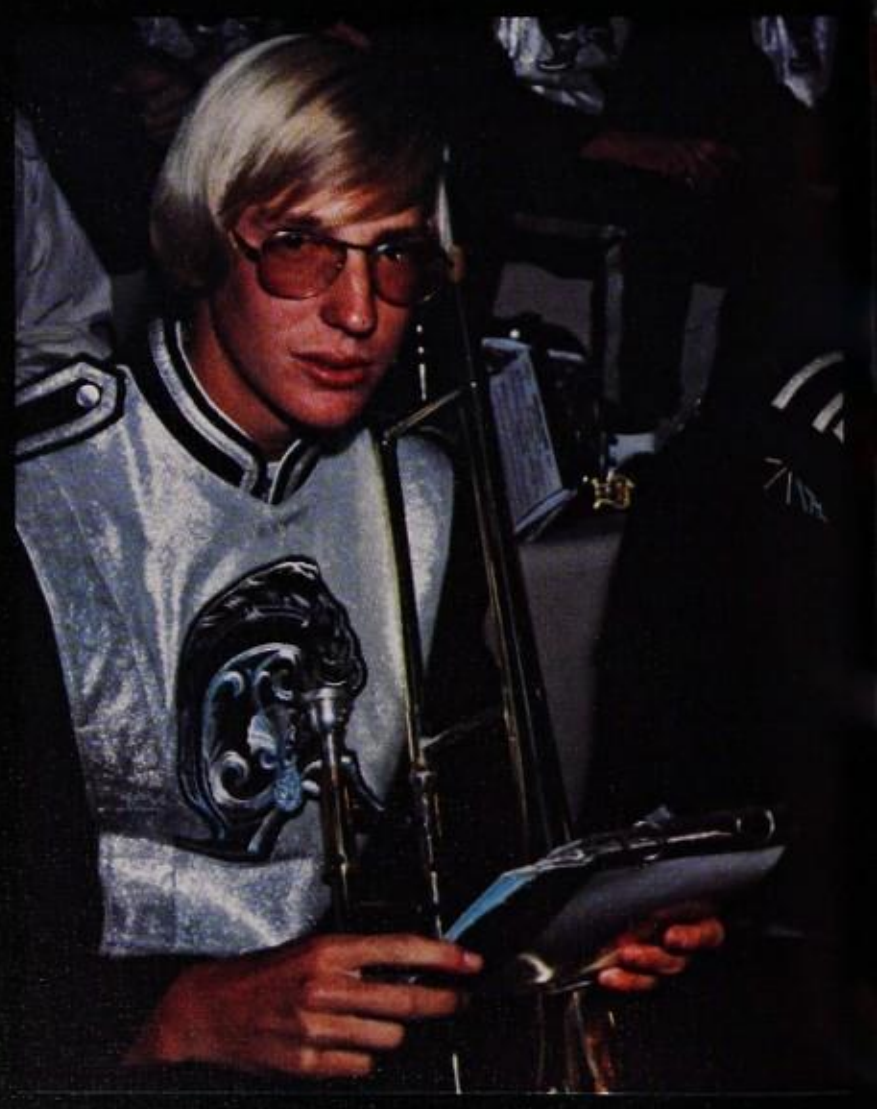
WATCH YOUR

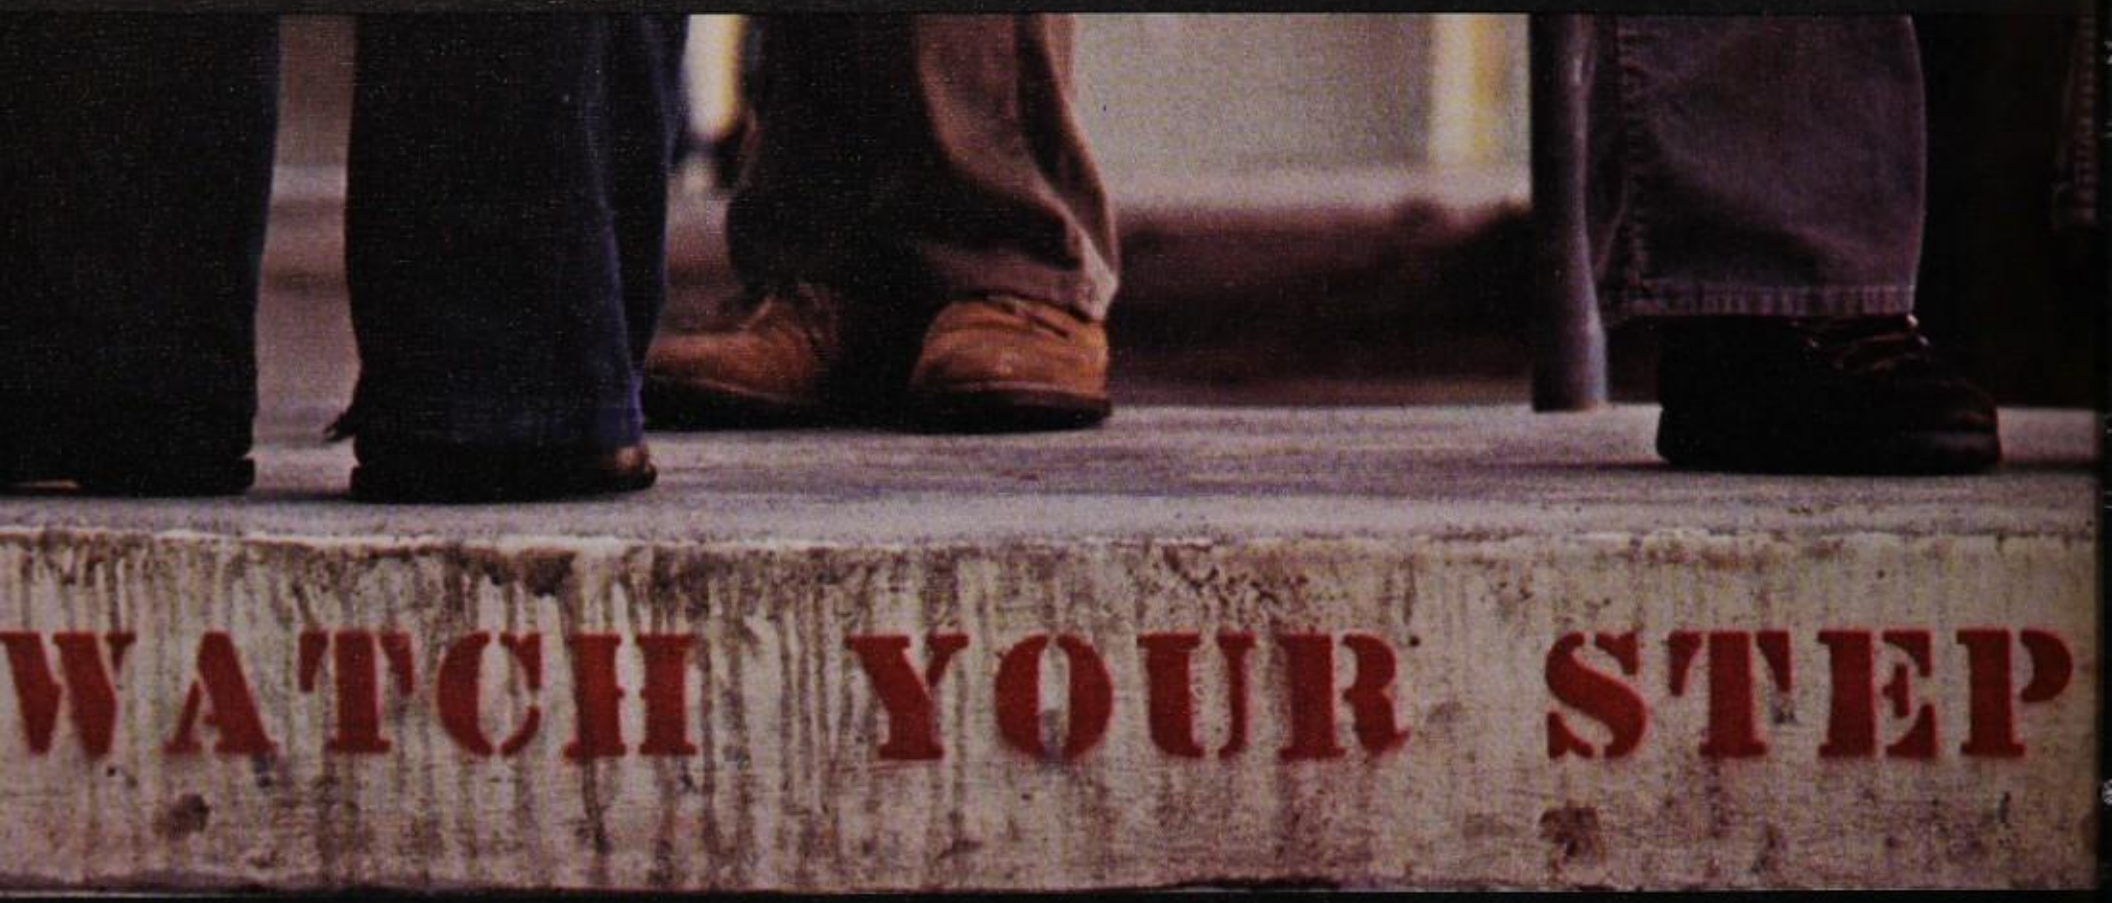




In a world that is too big to comprehend with one mind's eye, man searches for the elusive quality of togetherness. Down from the millions, the billions of humanity, man looks for others to reflect his world against in an effort to see it as it really is. We look for boundaries that make of us more than humanity, more than students. But those boundaries, originally meant to be an aid to the exploration of reality, have become cold, confining rails limiting the heights to which we can reasonably dream. We find ourselves like so many valuables, locked up from the world which deems us to be valuable. In togetherness we still walk alone in the rain, one more shade of gray.

Somewhere in what seems to be a myriad of aimless creatures, who share only the common bond of humanity, there are others with whom we can feel the exhuberance or the quiet joy and happiness which is lost on the masses. Two is so much happier than the solemn, watchful isolation of one, or the contrast with the radical lifestyles of others or even the incomplete togetherness of a group of close friends who share only one facet of our own lives. In another person we come closest to seeing the reality of our own world, mirrored in the life and face of a person who, at that moment, is close to the invisible "I."



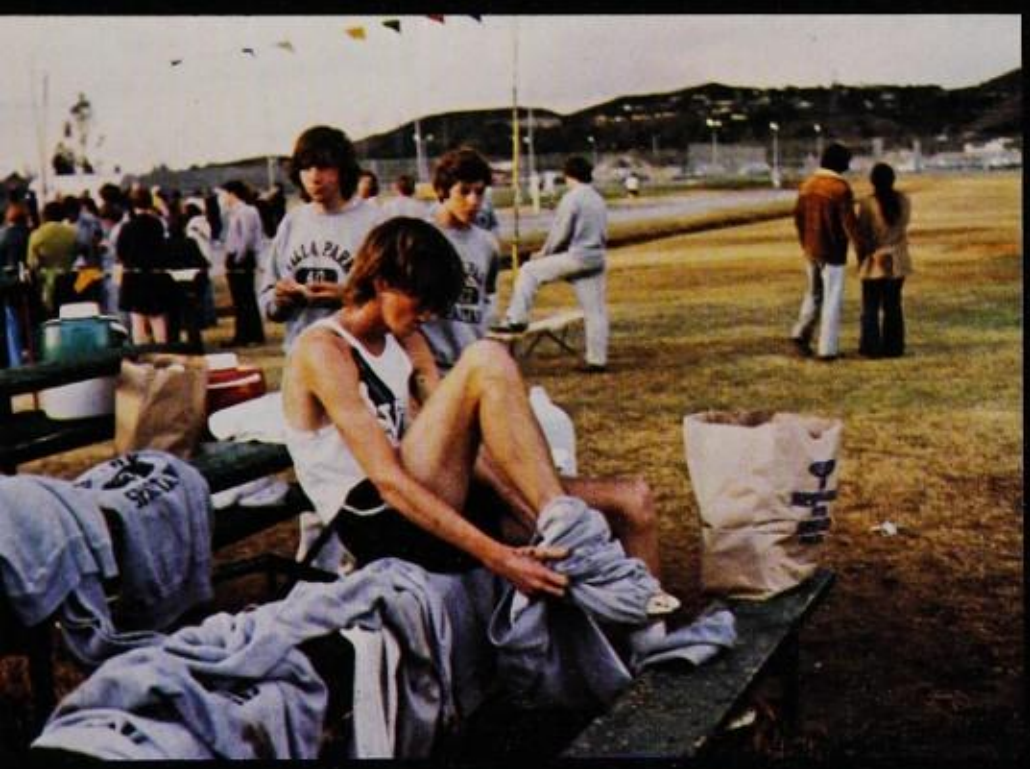


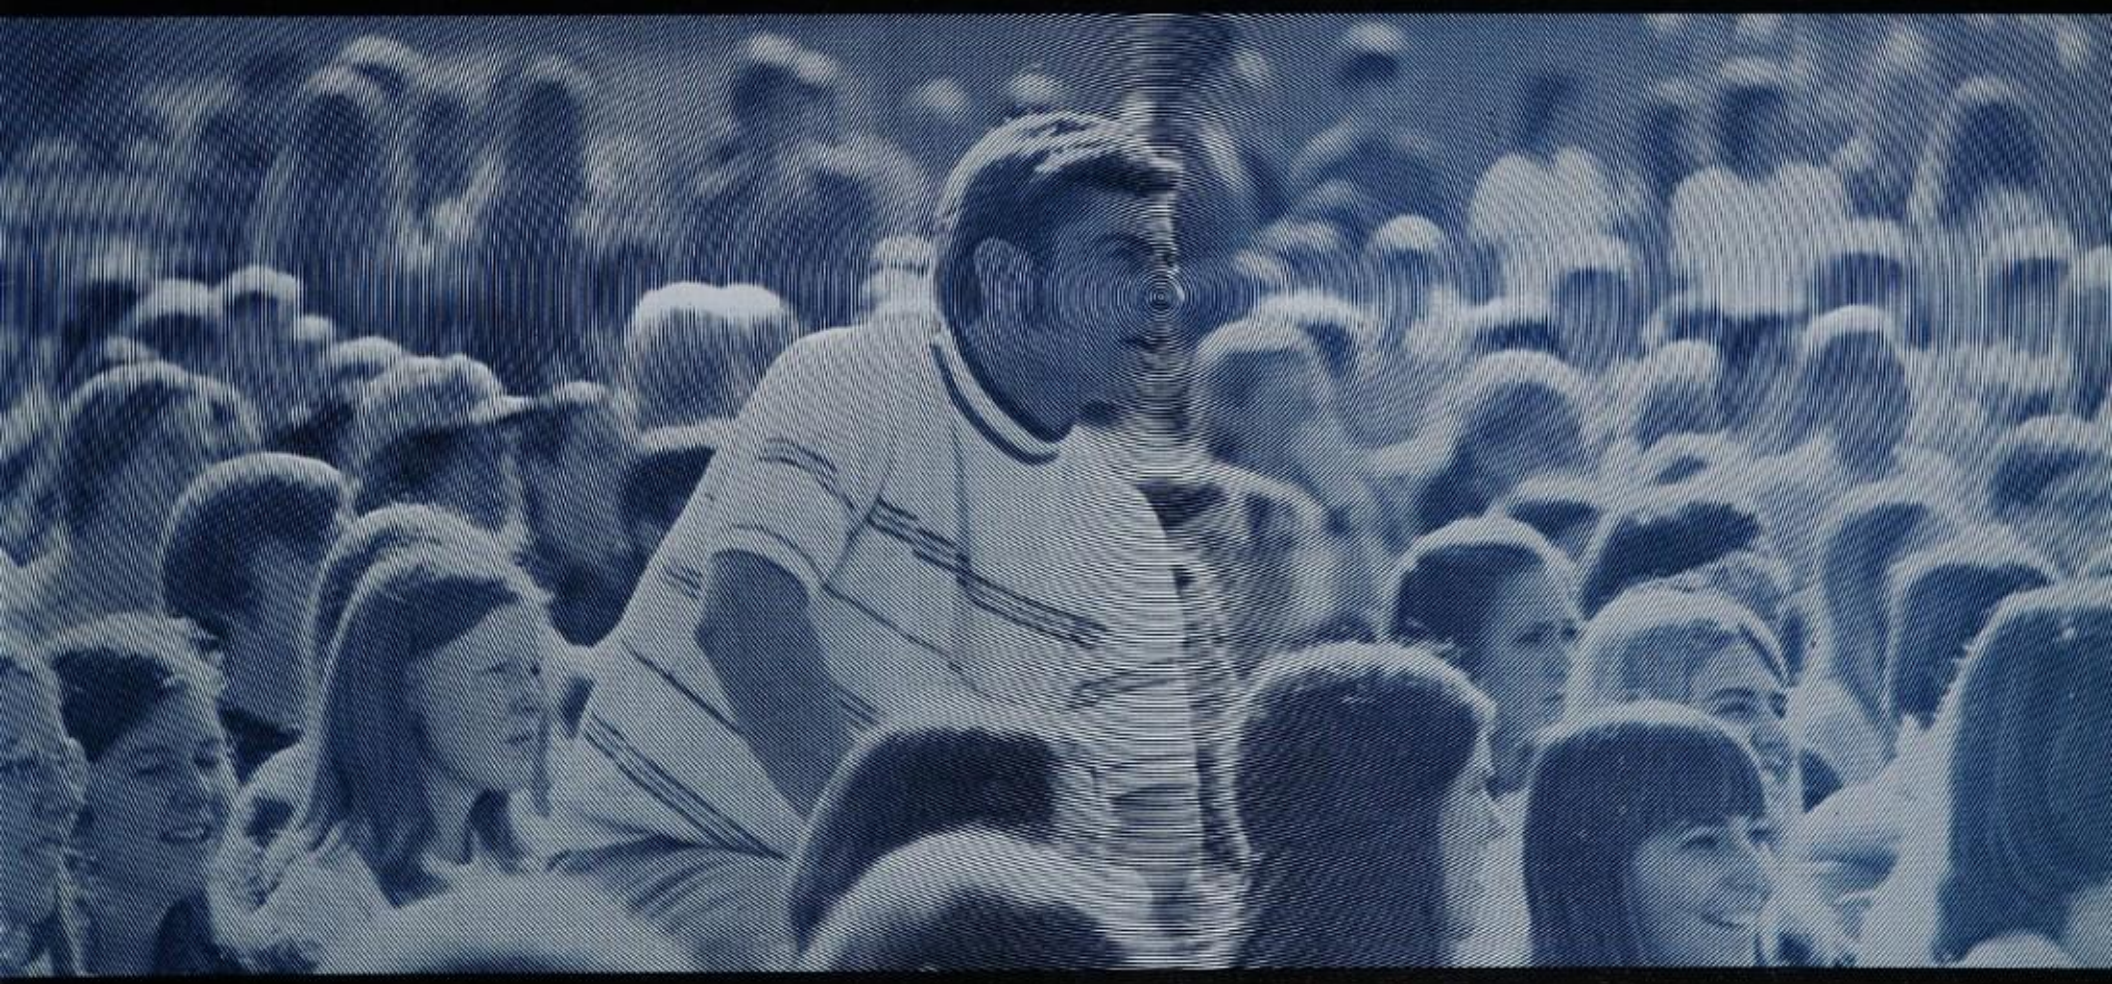
WATCH YOUR STEP

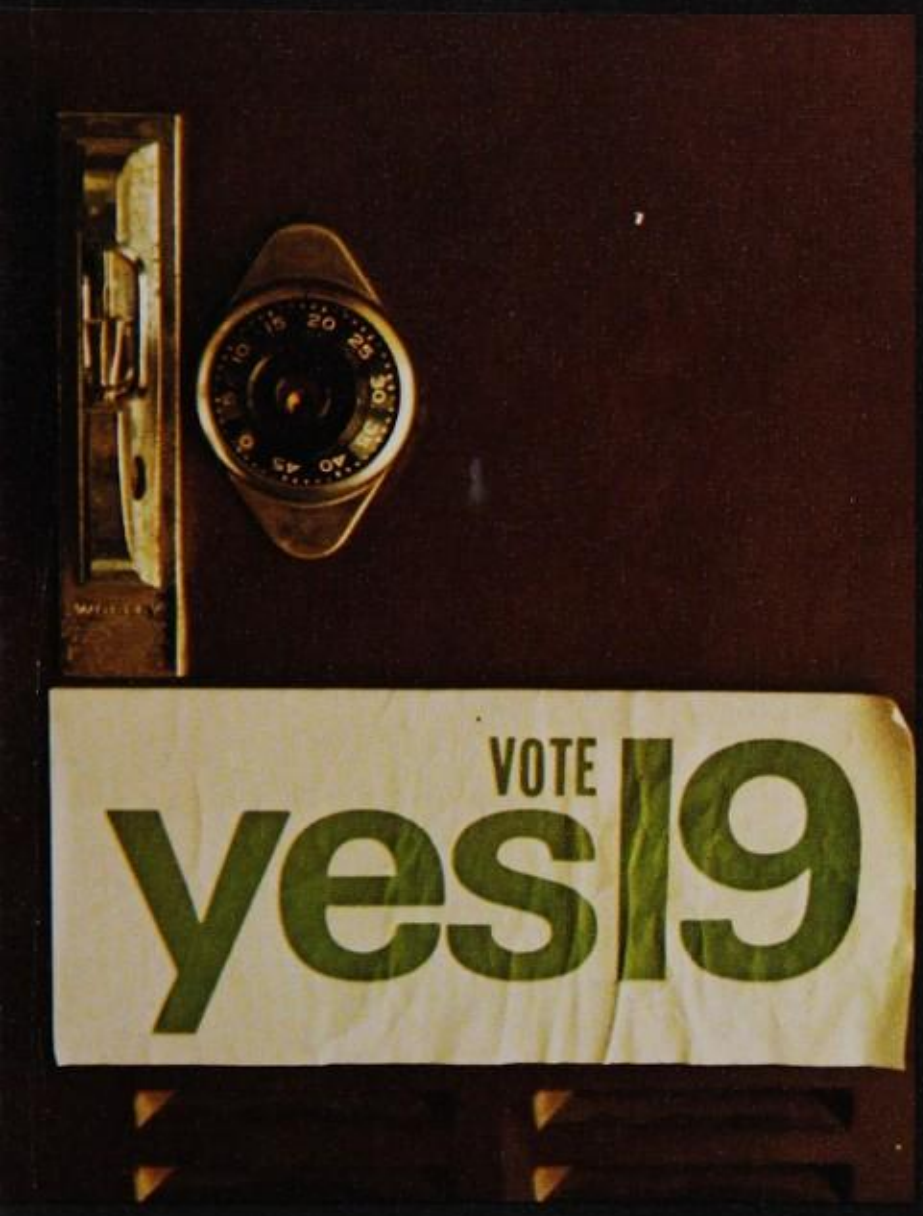
Although a tiny bit of me hides somewhere in every person, the reflections I see in them are broken and jumbled; the mosaic that they produce is not sound and whole, a grotesque exaggeration instead of a calming scene — a gargoyle's face rather than the feeling, compassionate being that we all seek to be.

The world all around us issues commands externally, with no one ever stopping to tell why their way is a better one. We find ourselves in conflict with the world which we can see and unable to see the world which is in harmony with our being. It seems that we have intruded on the visible environment, and the mythical beings which inhabit it are always checking up on our thoughts, our hopes, and our whereabouts, as though unwatched and unattended we would present a threat to their existence; in reality, they only exist because we do. We tread carefully, climbing towards a question mark

In efforts made to watch the steps we take, in the fear of upsetting the balance of things, isolation occurs. We find ourselves alone in a crowd, alone in the midst of chaos. Like most evils, isolation is self inflicted; we strive for goals only to find that we have become chained, influenced by something that perhaps we fear to reach for. Whatever the reason, it is certainly enough to cause a throwing up of the hands in frustration, and a wondering of where we stand in the world that surrounds us. Turning inwards we at last confront the victim and the product of a world which is screened from the examination by the walls of our own mind.







Eyes seem to follow circular paths in a medley of familiar views, focusing ever smaller from the massed, to a group, to our very selves, until finally even the self is just one more shifting color of the shimmering backdrop. Caught between the walls that hide the world which is our own, we can find new planes for the mind to travel in search of the invisible. Somewhere between the macrocosm and this microcosm of things which are not visible to the casual viewer, lies the self, a part of both, and yet influenced from without by the many facets of life, which like the blooming flowers, go unseen.

At last we stand alone, invisible among the multitudes, invisible among the smallest parts of a universe, living in an atmosphere which cannot be seen. We are only men and women, influenced by that around us, struggling to grasp what is little more than a half-remembered dream. We can see that dream, and our own selves only when they reflect in the mirrors of our minds and the minds of others. Our existence is a challegne to find the elusive reality which makes our lives what they are. We stand both at sunrise and sunset, looking into an open field, seeing for the first time our reflection in the puddles of a passing rain; we are the people who live, strive, and hope in a world which we cannot see.

"If you don't find something to identify with soon, you lose yourself in the masses."

Jan Fischer

Our lives are composed of brief solitudes and extended interactions between ourselves and others, many faceted jewels, each side reflecting in a different way: loneliness, companionship, crowd. Shadow and sunlight define the corridors we walk. Looking out we see life clearly, looking in we lose ourselves in the grayness.
Let us spend our days looking out. There are a thousand smiles in the refractions, each with its own joy.

Rick Kissler

Amongst the rocks and earth and crowds and people, we dig, searching for a reflection of self. Hands reach out, feeling substance and knowing life. We crowd together, touching each other and sensing the pulse of man. Seeking new horizons, we stand alone and together at once, at odds and in harmony at the same moment.

"Students" is the name we own, yet we are still humans influenced by a world we cannot always see. Like parked cars we are sometimes trapped by boundaries, over which we have no control.

"I go from class to class, moving all the time but getting nowhere. I walk all day but I'm still in the same place."

Lori Borchard

Faced with the anonymity of the crowded VPHS corridors, students sought to retain a sense of self. Attempting to maintain individuality, some found identity in activities while others sought escape in short day schedules and early graduation.

LEFT: As school reconvened, seniors Melinda Moore and Jean Janson conspired for early graduation.

Searching for a place in the closed society of VPHS, many students sought the special interest-oriented areas of clubs and individual departments. Still others found roots in routines, the basic 7:30 a.m.-2:02 p.m. regimentation of school life. Traditional activities of pep groups, student government and performing organizations offered still more outlets for student interest.

"No, assemblies aren't roll call and hassle."

Diane Cairns

VPHS students witnessed a wide variety of non-mandatory assemblies. Rock group "Shuffle" mixed comedy with music in morning and evening shows. Sophomores were oriented during a "get acquainted" assembly. Coordinated by Pep Commissioner Sue Farb, numerous pep rallies promoted spirit and offered entertainment. Nutrition assemblies were highlighted with the arrival of "Super Spartan" senior Dan Wischnack and junior Casey Cochran's presence atop the cafetorium during Spirit Week activities. Pep Rallies, gymnastic demonstrations, and music created by numerous bands gave Spartans a chance to look, see and do. Climaxing a semester of well attended assemblies, hypnotist George Sharp entertained a SRO crowd in the Villa Park gymnasium.

"A.S.B. government is working for yourself while giving to others"

Sandy Spelliscy

Gaining new power with an increased Cabinet Discretionary Fund, Cabinet members sought involvement and communication at the student level. Under the informal leadership of ASB president Angi Yates, Cabinet worked to widen the role of student government in campus operations, initiated visitation programs with local schools and supervised distribution of ASB funds. School Board representative Randy Rogers proved a motivating force within the council, formulating plans for a student activities centre. Daily first semester leadership class provided a working/learning atmosphere for members that was sometimes interrupted by "It's either raining or it's not raining" lectures by Activities Director Pat Duffy, periodic birthday celebrations and rain-splashed meetings in T-2.

"Regular governmental meetings and mandatory attendance would result in better communication with the student body."

Kevin Doane

Branches of student government sought action through democratic channels with third period meetings, legislative proposals and student committees. Meeting sparse agenda demands, Senate debated budget issue and ratified request for sophomore cheerleading squad. With members from all third period classes, the House of Representatives offered widest representation to Spartan masses. Interpreting points of ASB constitution, the 10 member Board of Control chaired by Bill Henning, gave Cabinet full power over ASB budget spendings in fall ruling.

Angi Yates

Recording passing images, the Odyssey staff strove to capture the sense and feeling of 1973. Gathered pieces of student life, suspended fragments of campus trends and attitudes were compiled by editors Leslie Jett, Charlotte Endter and Tom Farrell. Opting for the conventional single volume format, yearbook staffers battled theme controversies, misplaced proofsheets, artistic temperments, the first lunch "thungries" of advisor Doris Lowman and late night deadlines to create a total impression of VPHS.

Larry Lopardo

Magazine format and feature-based coverage gave new direction to Oracle staffers. Critiquing and reshaping size, form and general make-up of the VPHS newspaper at semester, editors Molly Maloney and Sandy Spelliscy guided the nationally honored Oracle through deadline crises, white fits, innumerable rewrites and last minute whims of adviser Doris Lowman. Making adjustments to monthly publication schedules and the marginal existence between printers, food oriented staff members met deadline pressures with sometimes practiced ease.

"I was impressed with the organization of the best Spirit Week Villa Park ever had"

Mrs. Alice Huestis

Lindon Bachelder

Spectacular halftime festivities and a 17-6 Spartan win over the Katella Knights highlighted the celebration of Homecoming 1972. Culminating a successful spriit week, a sparkling Marchin' Spartans halftime show saluted the crowning of Homecoming Queen Carla Haun and Princesses Lisa Davey, Julie Davis, Wendy Gerard and Galen Thomas. Enthusiasm of returning pepsters and alumni spilled over into a festive Homecoming dance "Just Like Yesterday" the following night.

"Spartan spirit is self-motivated, self-serving, and self-perpetuating."

Angi Yates

Meeting the demands of the largest ever Villa Park student body, Pep Squad members promoted Spartan Spirit. Enthusiasm was an ever increasing commodity in fall grid contests as VPHS enjoyed its finest ever football season. Bouncing song girls, chanting yell leaders and Spartan clad mascot Erin Anderson joined in zealous nutrition break pep assemblies co-ordinated by Commissioner of Pep Susan Farb. Villa Park pepsters proved themselves catalysts of school spirit with original routines, satiric skits, painted signs and outlandish cheering antics.

"Between wet and wild sign painting parties, being trampled by football players, and attempting to have meetings, I guess it was worth it."

Debbie Sears

Campus pepsters dazzled onlookers with vigorous spirit activities. Leading cheers with a portable microphone, Spartan mascot Erin Anderson electrified Kelly Stadium crowds. Pep Commissioner Susan Farb combined tradition with innovation in fall pep assemblies as Pep Club members marshalled enthusiasm with painted signs and campus decorations. Energetic junior varsity cheerleaders inspired JV. Bee and Cee teams with ebullient cheering capers. Boosting spirit with halftime props and stunts, Benchwarmers supported Villa Park teams from the sidelines.

Teamwork and cooperation abounded as the Marchin' Spartans faced victory and defeat with equal aplomb. Named state champion, Drum Major Kippy Wroten triumphed in Long Beach competition. Also honored, drum cadence team gained recognition as the top team in California.

Affording outstanding music students a chance to showcase their talents, the twenty-six member stage band entertained at annual VPHS Swinging Years Dance and joined with Vocal Ensemble for various off-campus concerts.

Achieving unprecedented acclaim, the entire VPHS orchestra was chosen for the district honor orchestra.

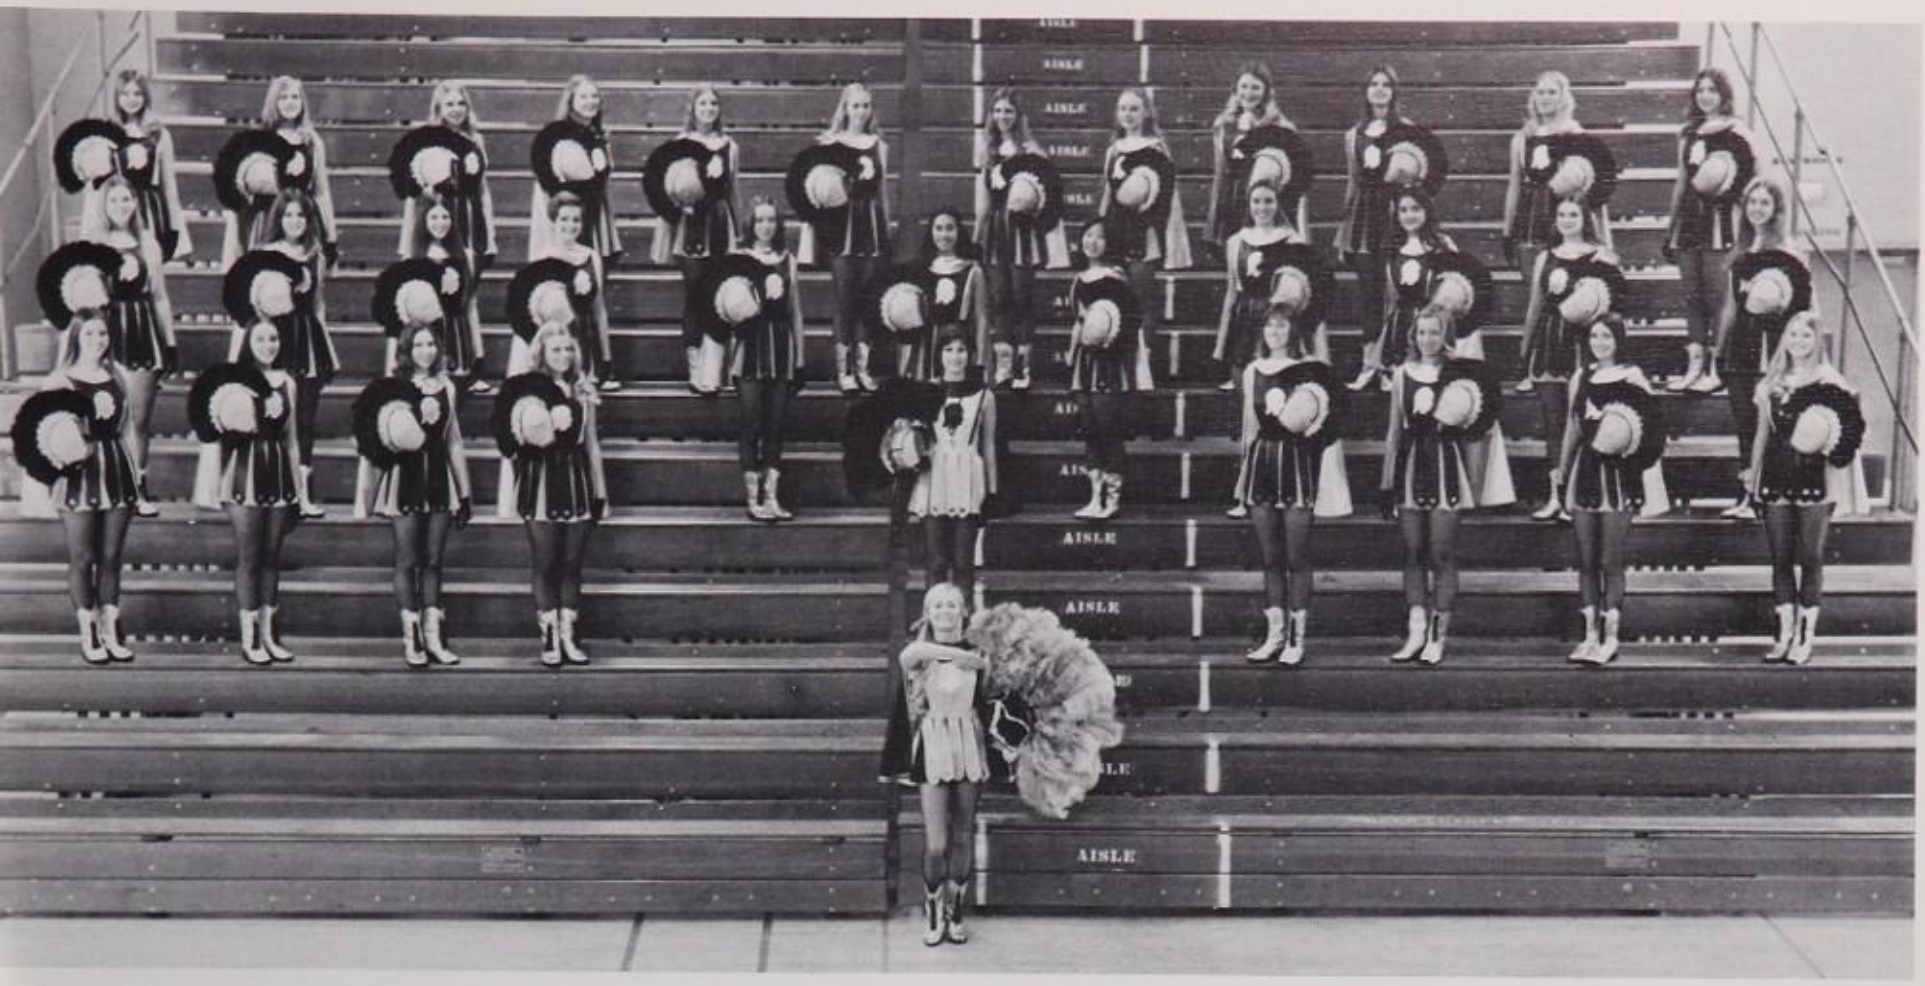
BOTTOM RIGHT: Captain Sandy Madigan's marching style set example to 45 member team at all performances and parades.



"Drill Team is one-hundred times better than I thought it would be."

Linda Morata

Matching enthusiasm with performance, Drill Team claimed top honors in fall parade outings. The Spartan garbed troops moved in unison towards a first place award at Rosemead Parade and fourth place status at Santa Monica competition to equal and surpass showings of past years. Less formal routines and flowing performing styles became second semester goals of team members under leadership of Captain Sandy Madigan.

RIGHT: Responding to spontaneous applause, choralier Dodie Karanickolas radiated satisfaction in vocal excellence.

"With Mr. Browne we all had a good-time while working."

Robin MacKinnon

Vocal music talent captured center stage in Villa Park choral group activities. Emphasizing top-flight choir performance, first year vocal music instructor Ron Browne led Villa Park choral groups in building a productive program. Seasonal programs, concerts, poster sales, festivals and field trips typified choral group efforts. Chamber Singers and the contemporary Ensemble excelled with such songs as "Dance to the Music" and "Make Me Smile." Ensemble singers were featured in a Long Beach USO Show. Concert Choir displayed performing talent in the San Diego Festival and joined in the campus-wide Christmas assembly. Assembling novice choraliers, Women's Glee strove for performing excellence.

"Music can really put you into different moods, and that's why I like it so much."

Connie Brajkovich

Long hours of practice produced seemingly professional performances by Chamber Singers. Singing at numerous festivals and concerts, the choral group executed top level vocal presentations. Women's Glee applied fundamentals in strong performances throughout the year.

BOTTOM: Melodies of the Yuletide season, sung by Chamber Singers, were interrupted by director Ron Brownes' relaxing humor.

"What I remember most about Coronation was the 2 ½ hour wait for dinner."

Steve Calles

"Crystal Reflections" of a crisp January evening set the scene for the winter formal Coronation dance. Scot Anderson and Galen Thomas were hailed king and queen of the Coronation Court, chosen by fellow seniors for outstanding service and contributions to the Class of '73. Attired in after-Christmas finery, over 200 students attended the gala held at Orange Coast College.

TOP: Shiny bubbles reflected the evenings' mood as Lynn Cornett and Mike Burke wisp them into the air.

BELOW: November French Club dinner plans were reviewed in discussion led by president Ginny Mason at activity period meeting.

"Oh no, not another crepe suzette."

Ginny Mason

Rejuvenated Inter Club Council spearheaded club sponsored "carnival" in Spirit Week. Lending mood of involvement to various campus groups, the ICC enterprise added new dimension to traditional fall activity. Attending French films and sampling French cuisine highlighted experiences shared by French Club members. A- grade point average entitled CSF members to April Music Center field trip for production of "Street Car Named Desire."

LEFT: Nutrition crowds were unnoticed at daily meetings of Bible Club.

RIGHT: Sponsoring a pretzel booth during Spirit Week, AFS students attempted to raise funds for foreign exchange expenses.

"There are waves of people flowing by constantly, more and more faces everytime."

Janet Mansfield,
AFS student from South Africa

Spreading fun, information and understanding on an international scale, American Field Service welcomed exchange students Janet Mansfield of South Africa and Lidija Petrovich of Yugoslavia to the VPHS community. Guest speakers, an International Dinner, football concessions and Spirit Week pretzel sales garnered membership support. Under enthused leadership of president Pam Potter, AFS initiated ambitious International Week activities in March, hosting foreign exchange students from neighboring Southern California schools.

"Clubs provide opportunity to work with small groups and individual students on a more extensive basis—rapport carries over to the classroom situation."

Mrs. Kathy Menneally

Emergence of new special interest clubs complemented activities of established campus groups in year of increased club involvement. Backpacking, Bicycling, Rod and Reel, Bible, and Poetry Clubs stood out among rising groups in move toward smaller, more specialized club activities. "S" Club events frequented school-wide calendar with club sponsored service activities. Lead by president Debbie Peterson, blue outfitted members pulled at collective VPHS heart-strings with traditional Christmas assembly festivities. Performing became emphasis of Dance Club in frequent shows and involvement in campus wide Performing Arts Night. Auto Club balloon sales and fund raising activities enabled club drive towards high school scholarship drag meet in late spring. Speech Club orators invested hours of practice in various debates and competitions throughout the year. Gaining 35mm camera through ASB funds, Photo Club raised money for new equipment through photograph sales.

TOP RIGHT: Geoff Fearns and Mark Frank listened to Speech Club advisor Miss Alberta Schuster voice her opinion of an original oratory.

"The competition of varsity sports forced me to improve."

Steve Nelson

Lettermen's and Varsity Clubs combined fun with fund raising in annual Donkey Basketball enterprise. In tradition of yearly battle, Lettermen and faculty cavorted atop sometimes less than co-operative donkeys, drawing guffaws from SRO crowd. Following another tradition, Lettermen's Club members joined "S" Club as escorts for visiting children at VPHS Christmas assembly and celebration.

"The AFS assembly made me realize how much more there is to the world than what I have had a chance to experience."

Sally Cushing

Preparations, elections and special celebrations typified VPHS spring activities. GAA members reversed traditional dating roles with February Girl-Date-Boy dance. White clad junior girls spent long after-school hours in cheerleading clinics, preparing for Pep Squad tryouts and elections. Hosting twenty Southern California exchange students in mid-March, AFS members talked, danced and ate their way through a party filled International Week. Girls' League Week featured daily activities that included a '50's Bee Bop Day, Mr. Legs Contest and "Hillbilly Boogie" Sadie Hawkin's Dance. Beginning pre-set routine of graduation, seniors ordered graduation announcements and were measured for traditional cap and gowns.

BOTTOM RIGHT: AFS International Week in March opened with assembly introducing guest foreign exchange students from the Southern California area.

ABOVE: In scene from the January production of "Hip Hippy Hooray," Merrie Fairchilds and Corby West demanded conformity from radical son, Tom Gorski.

RIGHT: Eloise Turner confessed guilt in dramatic role from "To burn a Witch" enacted at Fine Arts night.

"You learn more about human relationships and working together than about theater."

Peggy Jackson

"Being in Girls' League gives a chance for upper and lower classes to work together."

Janet Schreur

Piloted by a vibrant core of energetic Cabinet members, Girls' League members found expression in service and social activities. Carnation Day valentines, Fashion Show modeling, a sold-out Date Dad evening and "down home" Sadie Hawkins dance filled the Girls' League calendar. Spearheaded by president Vicki Isaccson, club projects ranged from September Big-Little Sister welcome to recognition of outstanding Girls of the Month throughout the year.

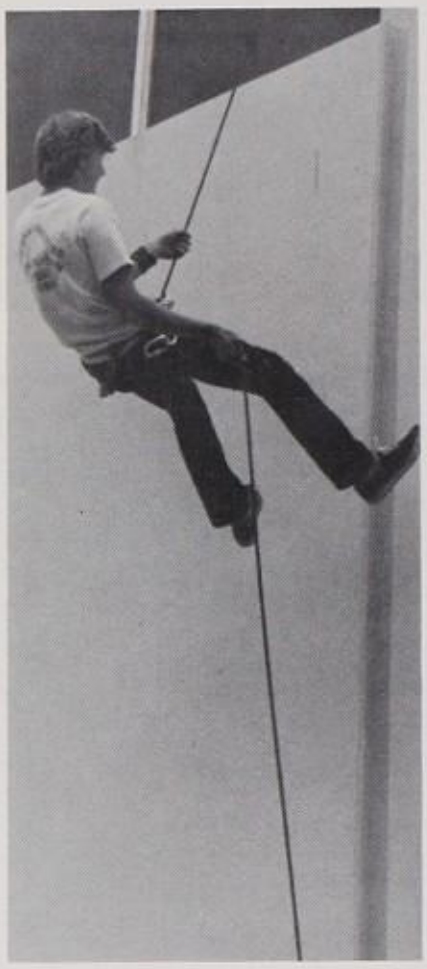
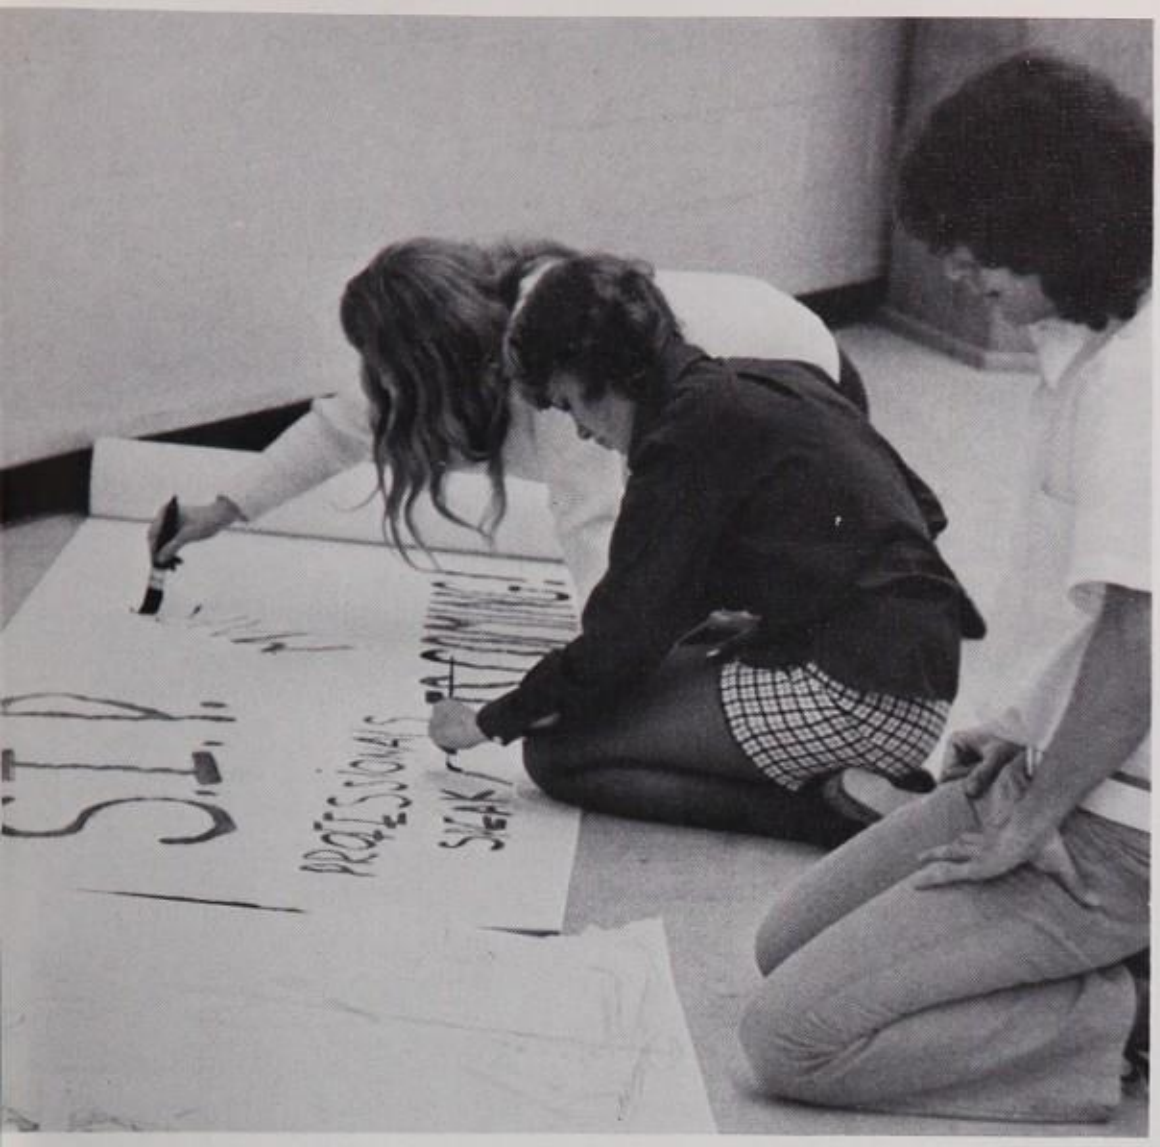
BOTTOM RIGHT: Over-flowing with food, the ceramics room refrigerator awaited the art department's pot-luck luncheon.





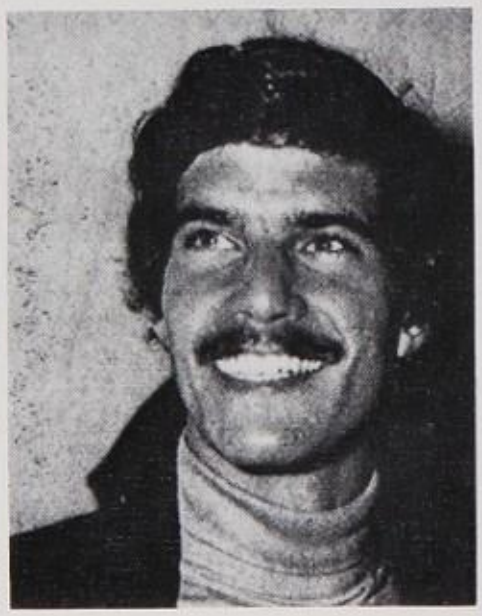
"Special Interest Day gave students more freedom; it almost seemed we were going to another school."

Cindy Prettyman

Attending hour-long seminars and demonstrations, students dabbled in specialized projects, hobbies and interest areas during March Special Interest Day activities. Amateurish tap dancers, clay covered ceramics enthusiasts and avid mountain scalers typified VPHS class-goers. Lunchtime entertainment and continuous showings of old time movies rounded out a day of guest speakers and student participation in special interest activities. Art department lunch-hour "feast" drew support from art students and faculty with student donated dishes and prizes for artistic expression in food. Organizers credited overall success of first SIP to variety of courses and classes offered in the day-long event.

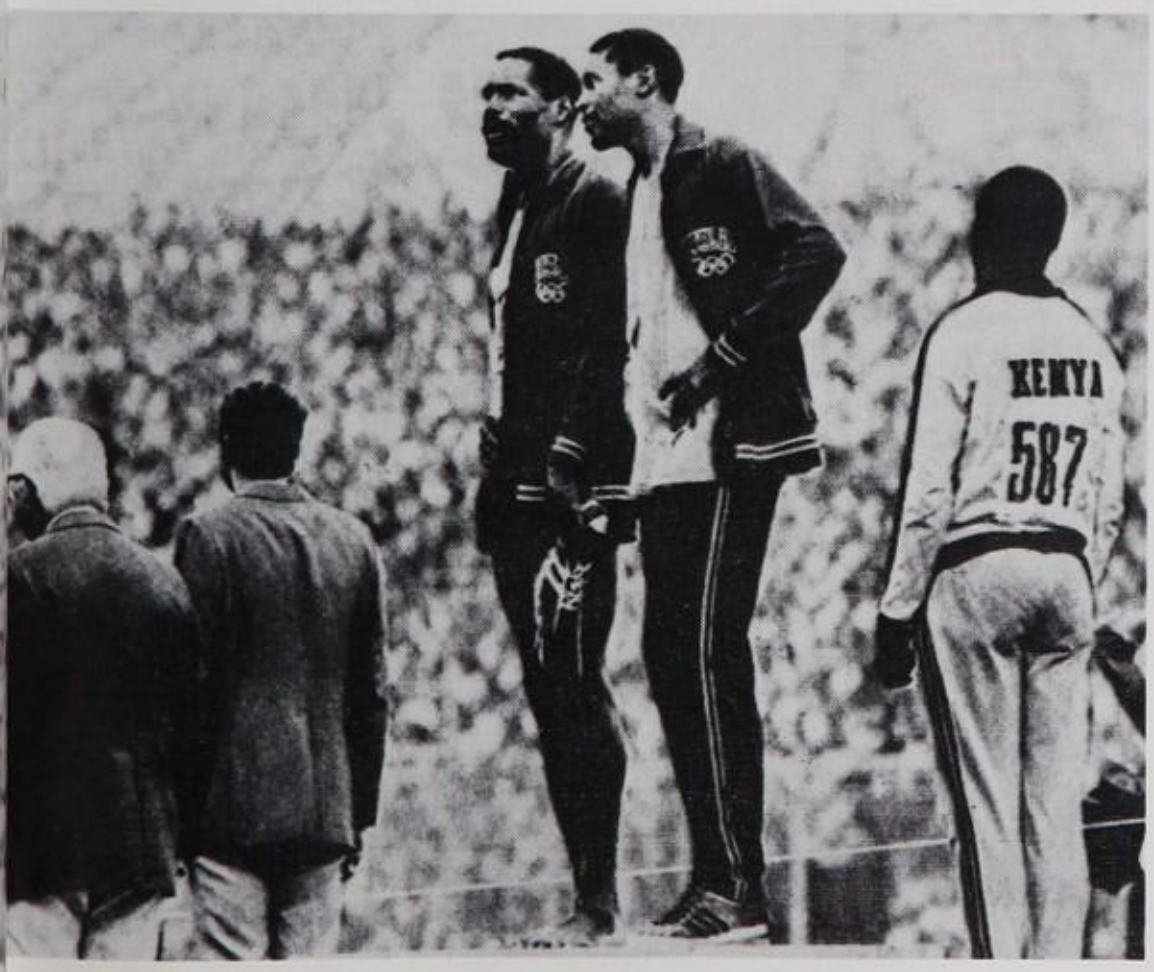
LEFT: Planned publicity of Ty Campbell and aides added to success of first Special Interest Program.

BELOW: Jesus-followers met informally during nutrition on SIP to publicize their "special interest."



"The thrill of victory, the agony of defeat."

Wide World of Sports



Tragedy marred the 1972 summer Olympic Games in Munich, Germany culminating with the murder of 11 Israeli athletes and coaches by the Arab terrorist-organization Black September. Other incidents caused many to question the validity of the Olympics as an international event. Discrepancies over vaulting pole styles, starting times for sprints, and basketball officiating dashed America's hopes for a windfall of gold medals. As gymnastics star Cathy Rigby failed to grab top honors for her balance beam performance, Mark Spitz, the Omar Sharif of the aquatic world, brought home seven world records and captured hearts of the milk lovers of America.

"A Peace With Honor"

After numerous tidings of peace from Hot-Lips Kissinger, Casanova of the diplomatic corps, the war finally began to wind down early this year. Students waited anxiously for the soldier on their bracelet to return from a war that all were weary of. In many minds the question still burned, "Why the hell were we there in the first place?"

Few, if any, ever will know the answer to that question, or even a fraction of the interrelated behind-the-scenes events. It is sad that an issue of such moral significance was largely a political football during the past twelve months, particularly as Election Day approached.

Although Christmas '72 marked the last show that Bob Hope will make to troops in Viet Nam, our country still will pour in its dollars to rebuild a country that is largely ungrateful for our help, spending to rebuild that which we originally spent billions to destroy.

CONVENTION HALL

"Promises, promises" Hal David

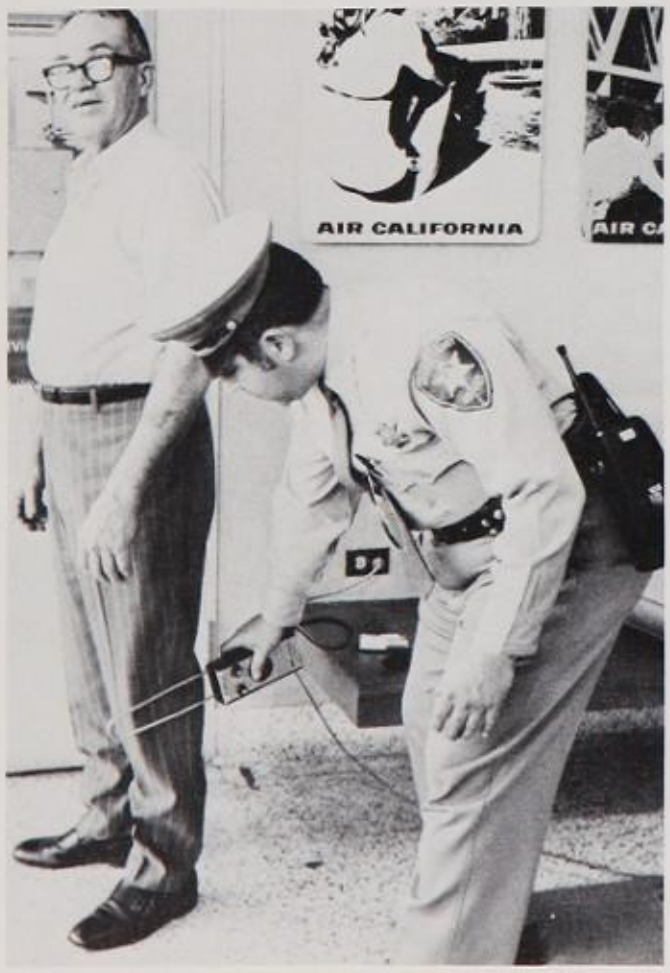
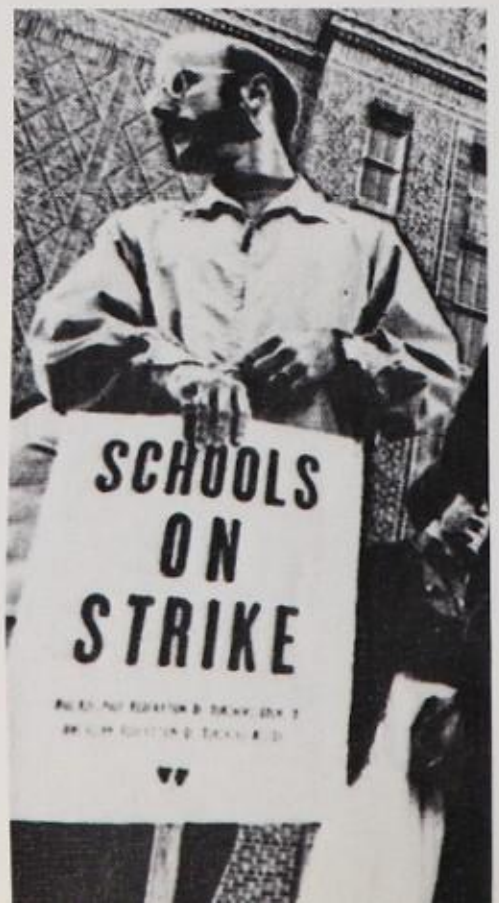
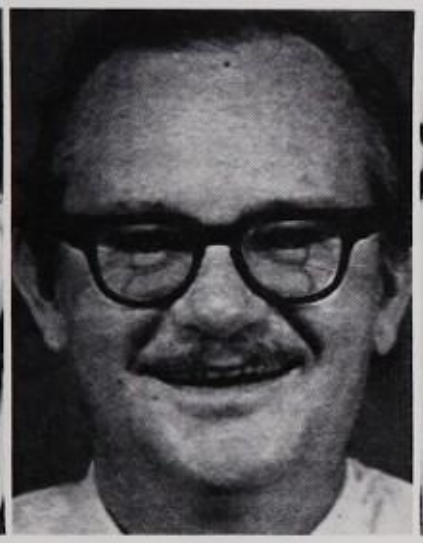
Political action dominated the year just past. Two conventions, both in Miami, both with protestors, and both buried in barbed wire, nominated two candidates who threw barbed comments back and forth.
Democratic nomination hopeful Hubert Humphrey announced that his favorite sandwich was peanut butter and jelly, and promptly lost to his more sensible opponent George McNeither.
McGovern, in turn, leased Senator Thomas Eagleton for a running mate and promptly lost to his opponent, Richard the First, whose taste in foods ran toward cottage cheese and catsup.
Other minor characters in the continuing drama of the United States Presidency included local Congressman John Schmitz, stuttering his way into the hearts of television watchers, Ben Spock the baby doc, and Sargent Shriver, filling in for Tom Eagleton.
The anticlimax of the year was the landslide election of Richard M. Nixon, in a mandate of voters second only to that of George Washington. It is probably the only way Tricky Dick will ever be compared with the first President of the United States.
After the Watergate bugging caper, and the ITT scandal involving heart stricken Dita Beard, and the cry "Peace is at hand!," voters wonder what will be the grand finale. After recent devaluation of the dollar, currently worth about 29¢, may come the coupe de gracelessness: The Spiro of '76.

It was a very good year







With the landing of the final Apollo mission in the Pacific, world views turned once more to the events and people closer to home. Mother Nature, of margarine fame, provided a few thrills of her own. Earthquakes were in vogue this year, with three in the immediate vicinity of Los Angeles. A tremendous quake in Managua, Nicaragua made thousands homeless and took the life of baseball star Roberto Clemente.

Howard Hughes returned to the public view- twice. Clifford Irving found himself famous for writing a fictitious autobiography of the man who owns Las Vegas. And the real Mr. Hughes did stand up, moving to Nicaragua for a holiday.

Air travelers were subjected to increased security measures in a successful effort to thwart aircraft hijackings. Many complained about the invasion of their privacy, and turned right around to see Charlton Heston battle plane and people in Skyjacked at $3 a seat.

Bobby Fischer won the World Chess Championship as well as the Prima Donna of the Year Award, much to the satisfiction of publishers and manufacturers who cleaned up on an American chess revival.

Acupunture was transplanted across the sea with the visit of Nixon to China, and needles became the realm of the addict no longer.

Los Angeles Times reporter Bill Farr was thrown into jail for refusing to reveal his sources of information, and people again wondered if the government was attempting to deny them knowledge of its dealings. Justice was evident in some areas, however, as Juan Corona, convicted for murder of 25 Northern California farm workers, was sentenced to 25 consecutive life sentences.

Nona Constantine

The preparation and eating of mashed potatoes is a pleasure as well as an art. When the serving bowl comes my way, I scoop out a generous amount of the fluffy food - a large portion but not conspicuously large. Next I plunge into the mound with a full dunker of gravy. Silky smooth, brown, lusciously delicious gravy hides my mashed potatoes. Fork in hand I dig into the masterpiece. My feast has begun.

Pain is something we must all live with

Some people have a physical pain,

A pain which, in a great amount, can destroy

Other people have an emotional pain

A pain which, in a great amount, can

their minds

But, if you have both of these pains simultaneously

they can not only destroy your

Sophomores direct their attentions to which popular classes to take during wait in August registration line.

Forgotten homework struck dismay into Kathy Ballantyne on her way to U.S. history.

Judi Marin attempted to close out campus commotion while talking on telephone during first lunch.

Everything that rises must converge

Sophomores,

966 strong, descended upon the VPHS campus in the heat of August to register for American literature, U.S. history, physical education, state requirements, and whatever elective classes were still open after juniors and seniors had taken their pick. Learning to cope with up and down staircases, crowded corridors, 7:30 a.m. classes, and a phantasmagoria of new faces, sophs had just adjusted to the rigors of Spartanland when they learned that their class would be split next year to form the Canyon High class of '75. Leaving behind friends and tradition, sophs living within the new school's boundaries again prepared for change and challenge.

Curious and grimy, John Fragnoli and Martin Wright eyed archeological specimens uncovered during class "dig."

Discussion during history class provokes amusement from Marcia Martin, Marjorie Fielder and Katie Kimbel.

"We're inbetween—too young for big responsibilities, too old for baby games."

Terri McCool

Junior class president Casey Cochran set up campsite on cafetorium roof during fall Spirit Week observance.

On the way up the down staircase faced with a $189 carry-over deficit in the class budget, began the year selling Cokes to thirsty Spartans during August registration. The ambitious class of '74 continued to build up the junior-senior prom fund by selling cider, cokes, and cup cakes at fall football games. Class president Casey Cochran highlighted Spirit Week Activities by spending the night on the Forum roof. Second semester energies were channeled into arrangements for the June 2 prom in the Golden Pheasant banquet room. Looking ahead to senior privileges, the class of 74 dispelled the image of apathetic middle child and generated pep through the combined efforts of the JV cheerleaders and involved junior class members.

Juniors,

Put on shelves to model for Art III students, dancers Karen Lundgren and Ann Kellenbeck displayed stoic demeanor.

"Your senior year is a lot less school and a lot more life."

Charlotte Endter

Suspended between regimentation and freedom, seniors moved in slow motion through pre-destined cycles. With senses numbed by repetition of innumerable facts and routines, seniors met unseen pressures with practiced aplomb. Dazed, harassed and weary, seniors moved towards the poignant release of graduation.

"Why doesn't anybody look up to small people with big hearts?"

Silvia Alvarado

BELOW: Debbie Cobine smiled prettily at anonymous admirer, but long time boyfriend Mike Thomas registered dismay.

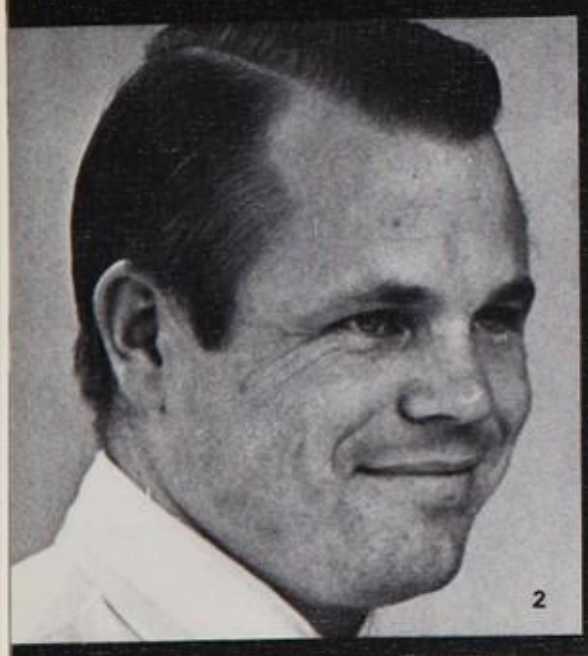
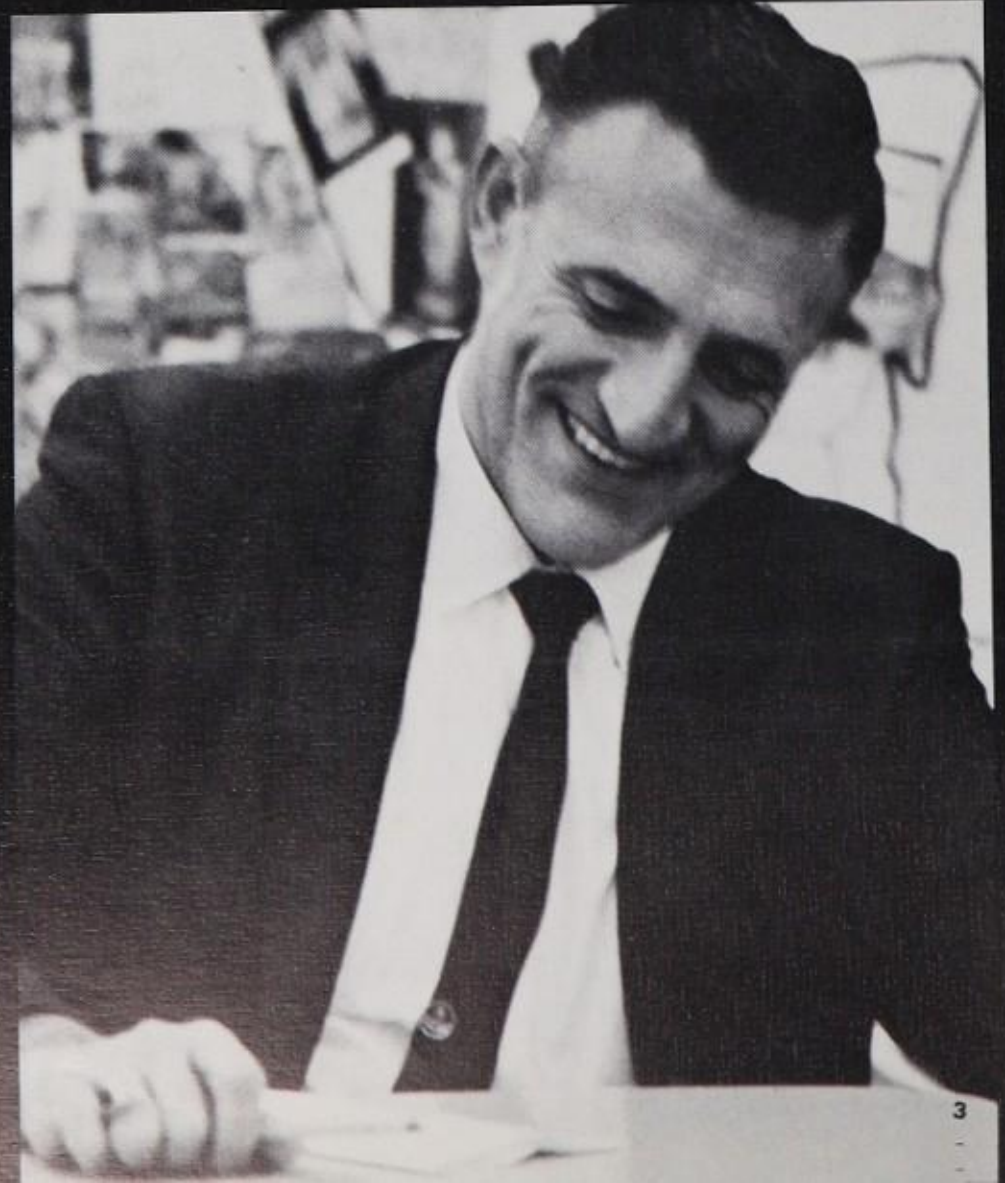
Surprising many with a mid-year decision to leave VPHS for the principalship of Canyon High School, Principal Louis S. Joseph welcomed his successor Richard Jackson, the fourth VPHS principal in nine years.

Overcrowded conditions, Stull Act evaluations and WASC accreditation provided a busy year for Villa Park administrative staff of "People Movers." The swift, smooth execution of The RULES occupied new deans Bud Davis and Don Kemp as they became acquainted with the Spartan community. New attendance officer Bob Hummel kept track of Spartan comings and goings from his attendance office/post position. Together with vice-principals Don Buck and Dick Kirwan they administered one of the "best years of our lives."





1. Richard Kirwan — Assistant Principal in charge of curriculum.
2. Patricia Cruz was oblivious to Mr. Joseph's class observation in American Literature.
3. With emergency and absence cards running a close second, the razor was voted the most widely used registration tool.
4. Assuming the post of VPHS principal February 5, Richard Jackson emphasized student involvement in education.
5. Anthropology students unearthed remains of long-lost VPHS substitute teacher during class dig.

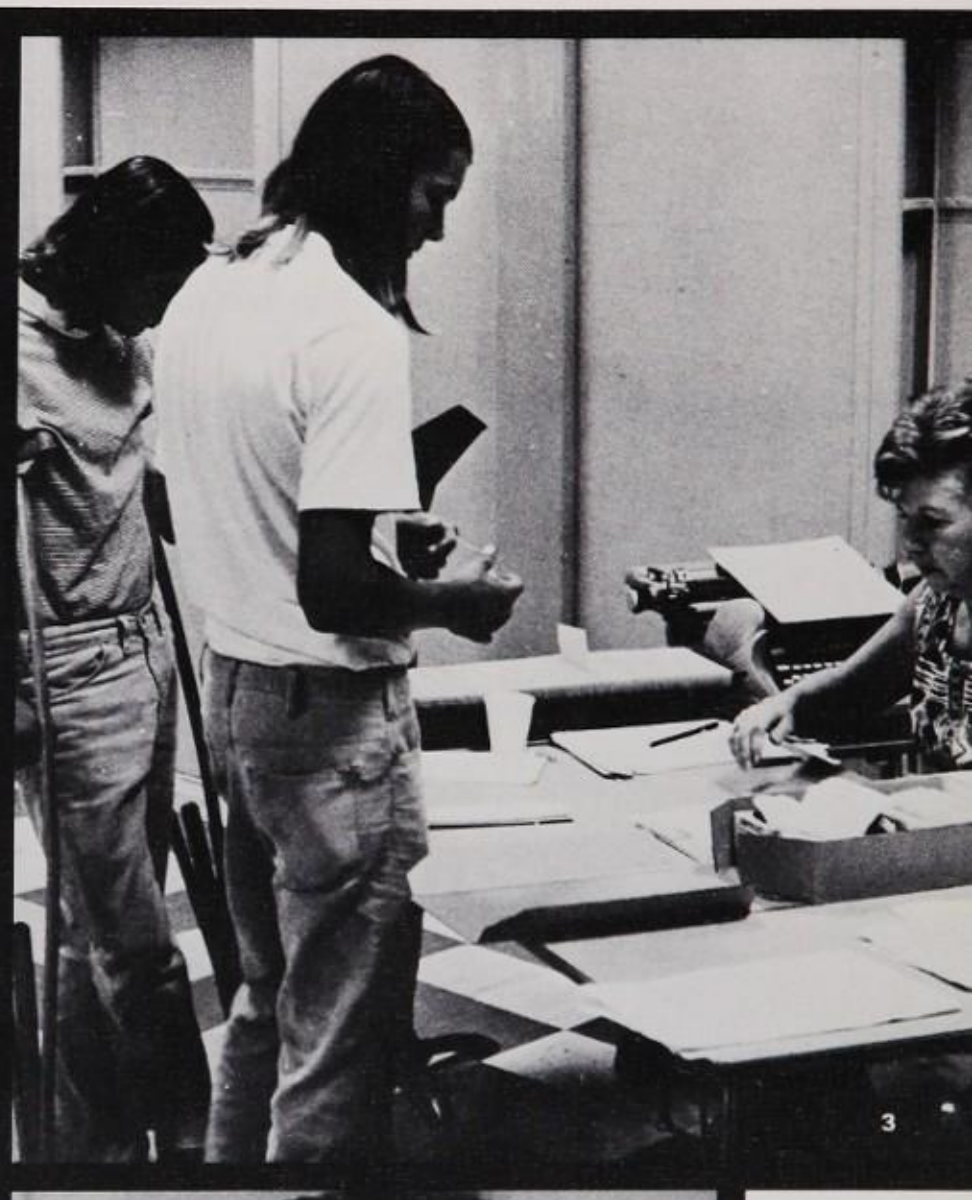
"When images of identity are endangered, manipulations begin."

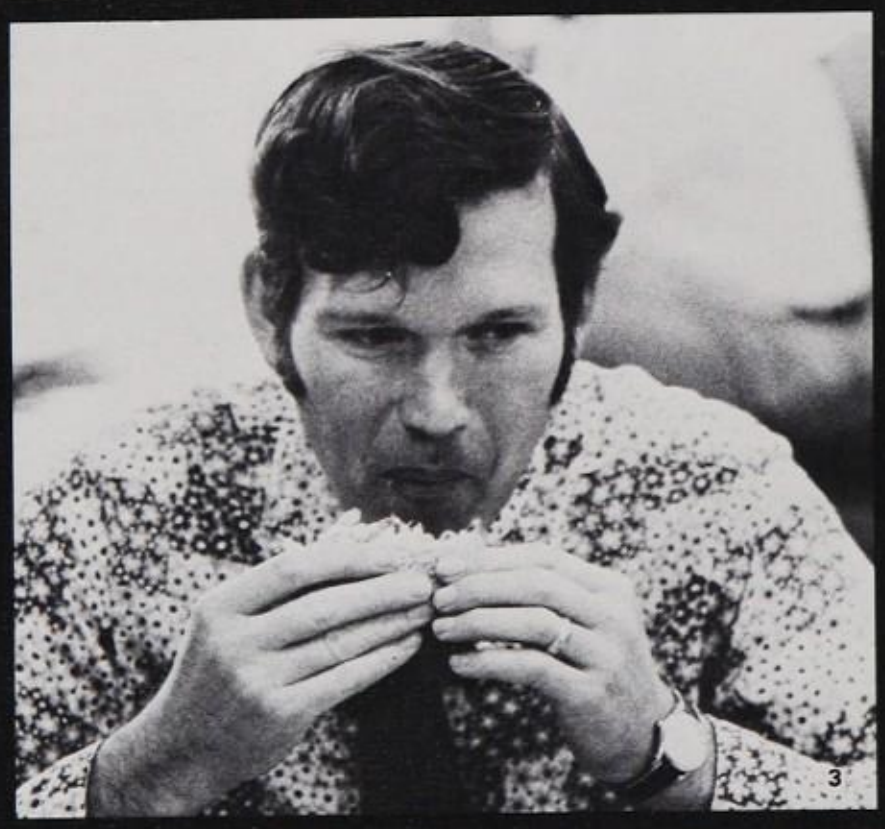
Tim Owens

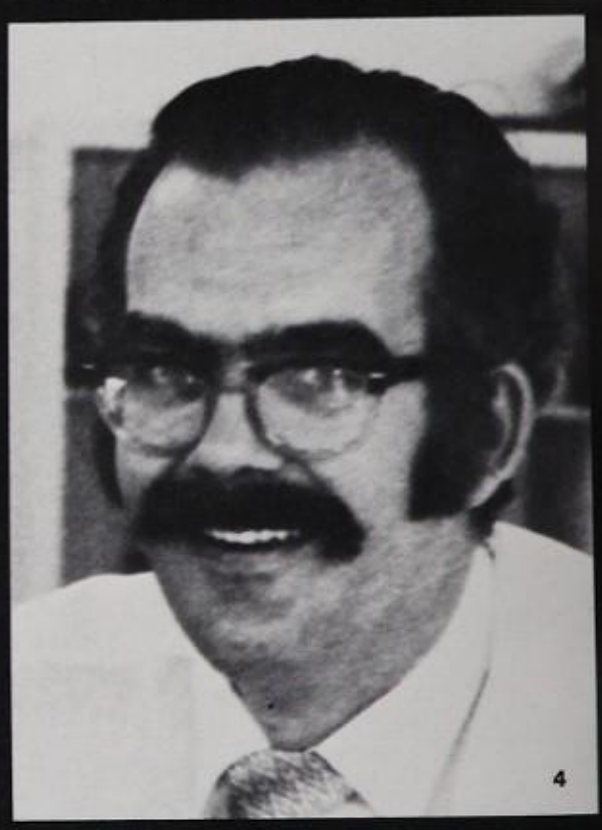
Guardians of administrative appointment calendars, paper clips and mimeograph machines, secretaries served as "Girl Fridays" for VPHS personnel. Juggling schedules, typing innumerable bulletins and taking care of endless operational details, secretaries performed often unnoticed, but necessary tasks.

1. Neva Stoffers — Secretary to the deans.
2. Darlene Krage — Secretary to Mr. Buck.
3. Marian Pierce processed registration forms of Jeff Overly and Richard Greer.
4. Esther Danker — Switchboard operator.
5. Nancy Quong — Secretary in the Principal's office.
6. Marty Logue — Bookkeeper.



1. Wilma Wittman — Student Opportunities Center counselor.
2. Keith Reid — Student Opportunities Center counselor.
3. Al Finlayson — Personal counselor.
4. Bob Edwards — Student Opportunities Center counselor.
5. Dave Hath — Personal counselor.
6. Sophomores stand in long lines awaiting class registration in August.





"Our role is assisting students to develop positive self concepts, thus enabling them to make meaningful decisions."

Mrs. Wilma Wittman

The Student Opportunity Center expanded its resources to include job description files for the career minded and college and scholarship information for those intent upon further schooling. Personal counselors Al Finlayson and Dave Hath supervised group counseling sessions and served students who had personal problems or "just wanted to talk to somebody."

Pat Duffy coordinated such student activities as student council meetings, pep rallies and assemblies, concessions at games, dances, and, new this year, rock bands at lunch.

The noon supervising crew - popularly "bouncers" - assisted the deans in enforcing campus rules and managed to become friends with many students in the process.

Overcrowding posed new problems for VPHS custodial and cafeteria staffs. Increased number of classrooms meant more time and effort spent in upkeep. Additional snack lines at both break and lunch served to relieve some of the Spartan overflow.

"The past is the burden of the future."

History teachers strove to ease the burden of rote learning from their student's shoulders through mini courses, simulation games, and interest seminars relating to situations of both current and historical interest. Through the sponsorship of Mark Gale, "cluster seminars" held in private homes featuring guest speakers were initiated, drawing unexpectedly high student response and involvement. Dispelling new teacher Paul Crumby's adage that "man does not think, he merely thinks he thinks," Mr. Crumby's classes rose to outstanding academic achievements — thinking that they thought.

Along with semester finals came the reinstitution of the reading period. Class hours were shortened to provide twenty minutes of free reading time each day. Books, magazines and newspapers descended upon the campus as the entire VPHS population settled down to read.

Attempting to increase student awareness of the mass media, Publications Advisor Doris Lowman fought deadlines, lost copy, pictures, and sanity in an effort to improve intercampus communications.

Expanding its curriculum to include classes in International Relations, the Senior History Department challenged students to become involved in the world around them. Field trips to the Santa Ana Courthouse to view actual court situations highlighted studies in American Democracy. Interviews, surveys, and student films were among many methods used by those enrolled in Social Psychology to study human behavior.

Attempting to bring sights, sounds, and emotions together in harmony, the drama, music, and speech departments hosted a variety of performances to display their talents. Band director Randy Coleman led "Marchin' Spartans" to first place honors in both Rosemead and Chino Band Reviews.
Newcomer Ron Browne conducted a mass choral production of Bach's Cantata # 142 at annual music department Christmas concert. Also new to the faculty, drama instructor Tina Lange incorporated student skill and talent in winter production of HIP HIPPIE HOORAY. Striving to gain practical experience before their transition from campus to college or community, students enrolled in foreign language, business, and work experience courses. Foreign language students strove to learn more about French, German, Spanish, and Latin, but many found the old expression "It loses something in the translation" still relevant.

The Business Department faculty conveyed the skills, attitudes, facts, and figures of today's commerce and industry to future executives and secretaries.

Expanding off-campus courses to include landscape design, nursery management, truck driving, bank carrier, and fire science, the four-year-old VPHS Work Experience Department placed an estimated 500 students in positions on and off campus to gain practical experience in an assortment of vocations.

Encouraging individual exploration, the science staff provided new insights into the study of nature's wonders and man's technological achievements. The new vocational chemistry class sparked interest in those students who had not previously experienced the excitement to be found in the realm of science. The Spartan Spa, a new, improved weight training room, was added to the Boys' P.E. facilities this year in order to accomodate the increased emphasis on physical conditioning. For those who sought release from the routine football, basketball, baseball P.E. curriculum, such alternatives as tennis, golf, badminton, and archery were offered.

Spartans have 'best season

Boasting the best season in the history of VPHS, Spartan gridders ended their season with a 7-2 overall record. Head Coach Ted Mullen guided gridders to second place with a 5-2 Crestview League mark.

VPHS traveled to Bolsa Grande Stadium for an opening encounter with favored La Quinta. VPHS scored the first two times they possessed the pigskin while the Spartan defense held the Aztecs scoreless in the first half. VPHS came home victors 27-13 while holding LQ to two touchdowns. Quarterback Kirk Reidinger rushed for a total of 111 yards.

Savanna's Rebels fell victim to the Spartans 41-6 in a debut home matchup at Kelly Stadium. While the VPHS dynamite offense continued to explode, the defense acted like General Grant's Army in stopping the "Stars and Stripes" offensive squad.

Hopes of a league championship met an early end when the Mullermen met rivals El Modena and Orange. Down by eleven points at half-time, VPHS put on a furious second half rally. Down by 3 points in the waning moments, Mullen's driving offensive unit was stopped when an El Mo defender intercepted a Kirk Reidinger pass in the end zone.

Orange High severely dimmed Villa Park's title hopes. A Panther touchdown on a punt return, and an additional score seconds before the half gun spelled doom for VPHS. As the final gun sounded, the Spartans found themselves on the wrong end of a 28-6 score. OHS went on to the Crestview League title.

Refusing to give up

Villa Park welcomed first place Mission Viejo to Fred Kelly Stadium. Hivner's Diablos were looking for a third straight win and a first ever over Villa Park. They were denied both with VPHS winning 27 - 8.
Coach Mullen's disciples traveled to aging Northrup Field to face a fired up Tustin team. The Tillers had upset rival Foothill and snapped an 18-game losing streak the week before. Hopes of a two game streak evaporated as the Spartans doused Tustin 19-8. Junior tailback Tony LoPiccolo rushed for 93 yards and two touchdowns. VPHS's defense, victimized in its first two league games, turned in its third one touchdown game.
VPHS celebrated Homecoming by entertaining Katella's Knights in a highly controversial game. Katella's cheap shot play helped them to an El Mo victory the week before. Against the Big Blue, their style of play helped them to losses in yards, (penalties) players (ejected), and the game. VPHS Homecoming was celebrated with a 17-6 victory. Linebacker Kevin Vasquez highlighted the game by intercepting a screen pass and taking it in for the score.

Gridders traveled to "the pit" to celebrate Homecoming with San Clemente's Tritons. Disaster struck on the first series when offensive leader Kirk Reidinger separated a shoulder. Junior Bob Ansari filled in as QB turning the matchup into a defensive contest. The only score came when Scot Anderson blocked a Triton punt that alert Jim Cunnigham pounced upon in the end zone. A gutty goal-line stand in the final moments halted any chance for a San Clemente score. VPHS owned its first shut out in 4 years, and a 7-0 win.

In eight years of rivalry. VPHS had never beaten Foothill. Entering the season finale it appeared that a sick, injury-riddled Spartan squad would be denied again. Playing on a muddy Kelly Field, Big Blue battled the Knights to a 0-0 halftime score. Foothill drew first taking a 7-0 lead late in the third quarter. Hungry for a fifth straight win, Ted Mullens makeshift offense engineered two scoring drives in the fourth quarter. With the final gun of the season VPHS fans and players savored a first ever win over Foothill. Season honors were shared as linebacker Tony Kincaid, slot-line backer Brian Hester and quarterback Kirk Reidinger claimed "Most Valuable" citations. Junior Bob Scheblein was awarded "Most Improved Offense" while Ron Sage received the defensive counterpart. Jim Cunningham was named "Most Inspirational" and teammates elected Tony Kincaid "Team Captain.

JV's play only four games

Plagued by an erratic schedule, Villa Park's Junior Varsity football squad ended gridiron play with a 3-3-1 record.

With three high schools forfeiting on a seven game schedule, Spartan J.V.'s were handed automatic victories from El Modena, San Clemente, and Mission Viejo. Highlighting the season was a tough defensive bout with rival Orange High resulting in a 0-0 tie.

Coached by Dick Corradino and Phil Thoner, the J.V.'s proved to be the unsung heros during VPHS's best ever varsity season. The junior gridders simulated both offensive and defensive motions for Ted Mullen and company—proving "you can make it if you try."

Cross Country looks ahead

Led by the consistent performances of senior Mike Wells, VPHS Varsity harriers placed low on the Crestview ladder. Defeating the Katella and San Clemente teams in the last leg of the season, the Varsity finished with a 2-5 record and a sixth place ranking.

Juniors Rich Chmielewski, Chris Holleran, and David Satterthwaite headed the Junior Varsity to a 4-3 league record and a fifth place tie. Ending the season with an upset victory over Foothill, the JV's knocked the Knights out of title contention.

Providing the varsity with material throughout the season, the sophomores were the most successful of the VPHS teams finishing in third place with a 3-2 mark.

A glance at next season reveals that six of the top nine runners are underclassmen and that '74 may be a good year for Bob McKie's harriers.

Varsity basketball encountered problems even before season started. All-League guard Charlie Duncan ended his high school basketball career when he fractured his neck in a freak surfing accident. Forward Terry Topercer, the only other player with varsity experience, was lost early in the season with a broken ankle.

With several players moving away, Coach Synder found himself with a team lacking any varsity experience. That inexperience made itself plain as VPHS cagers struggled through a 3-19 season.

After defeating St. Paul 54-51 in the home opener, VPHS proceeded to lose twelve straight, a school record. Squeezing past the San Clemente Tritons 52-50 in the Spartan gym, Villa Park couldn't muster a winning effort for six games. Meeting at San Clemente in the second round of league action, Synder's cagers defeated the Tritons for their third and final win.

Referred to as "the hardest worker" by Coach Snyder, Captain Mark McMillan led one of the best defenses in the league and threw in an average of 12 points a game.

"Super soph" Steve Nelson

led the Spartan offense. Establishing himself as the fourth leading scorer in the Crestview league with an average of 17 points a game, Nelson scored 39 points against San Clemente to break Ron Todd's record of 35.

Senior Brian Hester converted from football to basketball to harass numerous opponents. Hester scored his season high of 19 points in the season finale against El Modena.

Synder's "Super Sub" Steve Calles consistently performed well all season filling gaps in the VPHS line up.

Kevin Costner, a transfer student, came to Villa Park to grab a starting guard position.

Grable's swinging batsmen began the season awaiting delivery of their new blue uniforms and wading in a swamped El Modena park, but managed to go undefeated during the first round of Crestview league play.

"Mel's Maulers" tallied a 3-2-1 record in pre-season competition. Opening at Pacifica, the Spartans shut-out the Mariners while picking up seven runs. Losing to Loara, VPHS batsmen faced Anaheim. Out for revenge, the team outlasted their opponents to send the Colonists home on the short end of a 7-6 score.

Tying Savanna 0-0 on their diamond, Villa Park returned home to beat University 6-1. Ending the pre-season on a sour note, "Big Blue" dropped their final practice game to Garden Grove.

"We just put everything together" commented Coach Grable. The varsity played well on defense as well as offense, giving up only ten runs in six games.

Losing three of their last seven contests, the Spartans had to settle for a second place league finish behind a surging Orange team.

Villa Park had its best CIF performance from any athletic team ever, as Grable's nine reached the quarter finals. Humbling the County's number two team Western 9-1, and drumming Magnolia 4-0, the Spartans were finally stopped 7-5 in a game played under questionable officiating against Santa Monica.

Seniors Bob MacHale, Brian Hester, and Mark McMillan and sophomore Dennis Burtt all held averages in the .300's half way through the season.

Juniors Bob Ansari and Ray Rangel had 0.00 Earned Run Averages after pitching two victories apiece. Bob MacHale pitched in top form all season. The senior hurler was victorious in the season opener, giving up only one run to cross town rival Orange. Exhibiting his endurance, MacHale went all the way in a 5-5 tie after eleven innings against Tustin.

enjoyed great success in league play during the 1973 season.

Pictchers Steve Borowski, Craig Raney, and Steve Compton worked with catcher Steve Till to terrorize Crestview opponents in the batter's box. Sophomore Bob Quiroz led infielding juniors George Braddock, Mickey Sundy, and John Weneta at the bat with a .600 batting average early in the season.

Juniors Mark Tuerffs and Mike Fronk performed well in the batter's box as well as patrolling the outfield. Coach Russ Murphy's sophomore baseball team fared well in the Crestview league. Paced by the solid hitting of John Nastasi and Mark Lamph, and the pitching of Mike Gilles and Craig Porter the underclass batsmen rolled to early season victories.

Girls' Athletic Association shot-up in the eyes of members as it managed to set up the first performing gymnastics team and organized the busiest schedule of events ever. Events included selling popcorn at football and basketball games, a good turnout at Christmas alumnae party, Masquerade Halloween party, successful teams in hockey, volleyball and basketball, and donating money for the new Canyon high school for the start of an addition to the Girls' Athletic Association.

Bouncing balls and bumping bodies characterized other contact sports. Determined sportswomen blocked shots and sunk baskets towards a winning season in basketball. Girls' P.E. Third row: Terri McMurran, Keleen Loeffler, Karen Zakzeski, Sherri Morehouse, Diane Davis, Cheryl Holley.

CENTER: Senior Keleen Loeffler executes a perfect set-up for an oncoming Spartan spiker.

RIGHT: Fire-eyed Debbie Ritter prepares to strike the puck while Dana Jacobs backs her up.

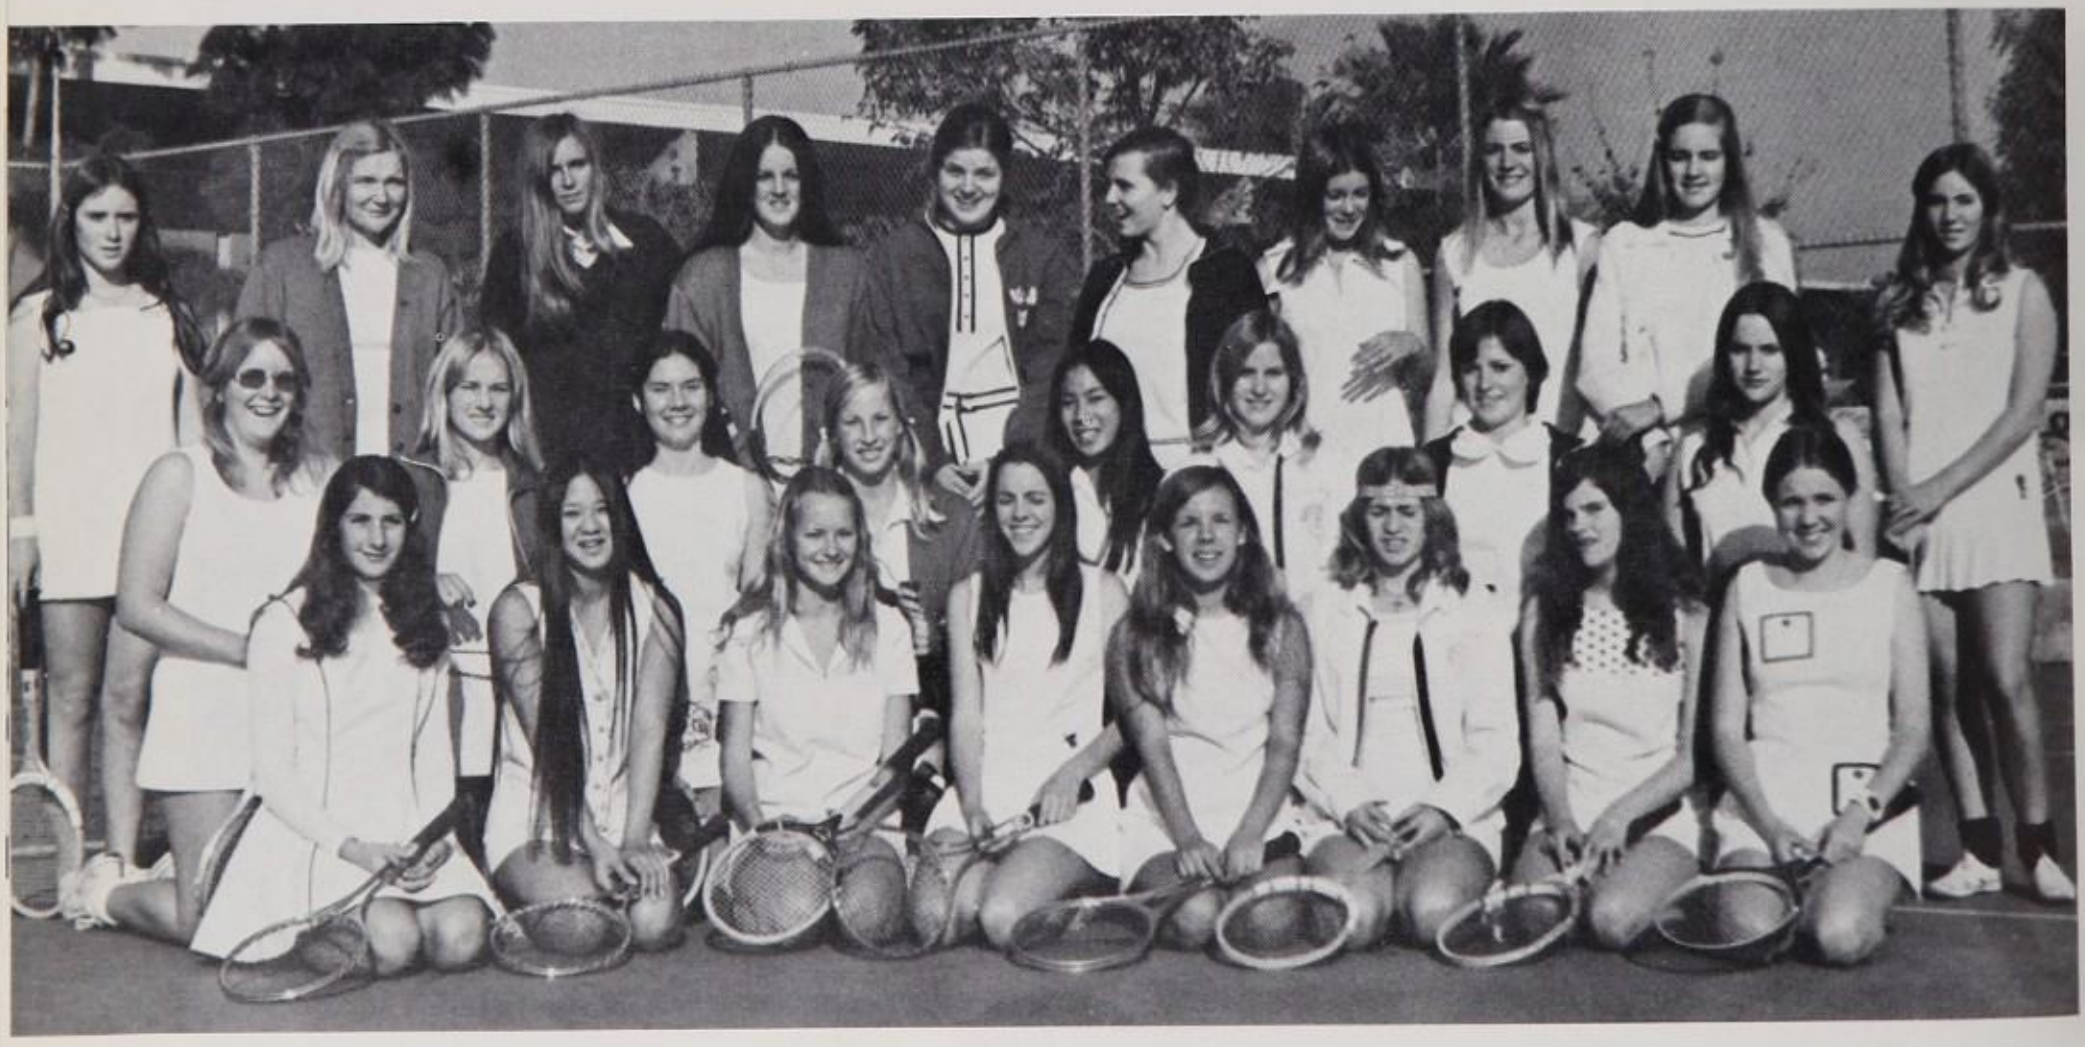
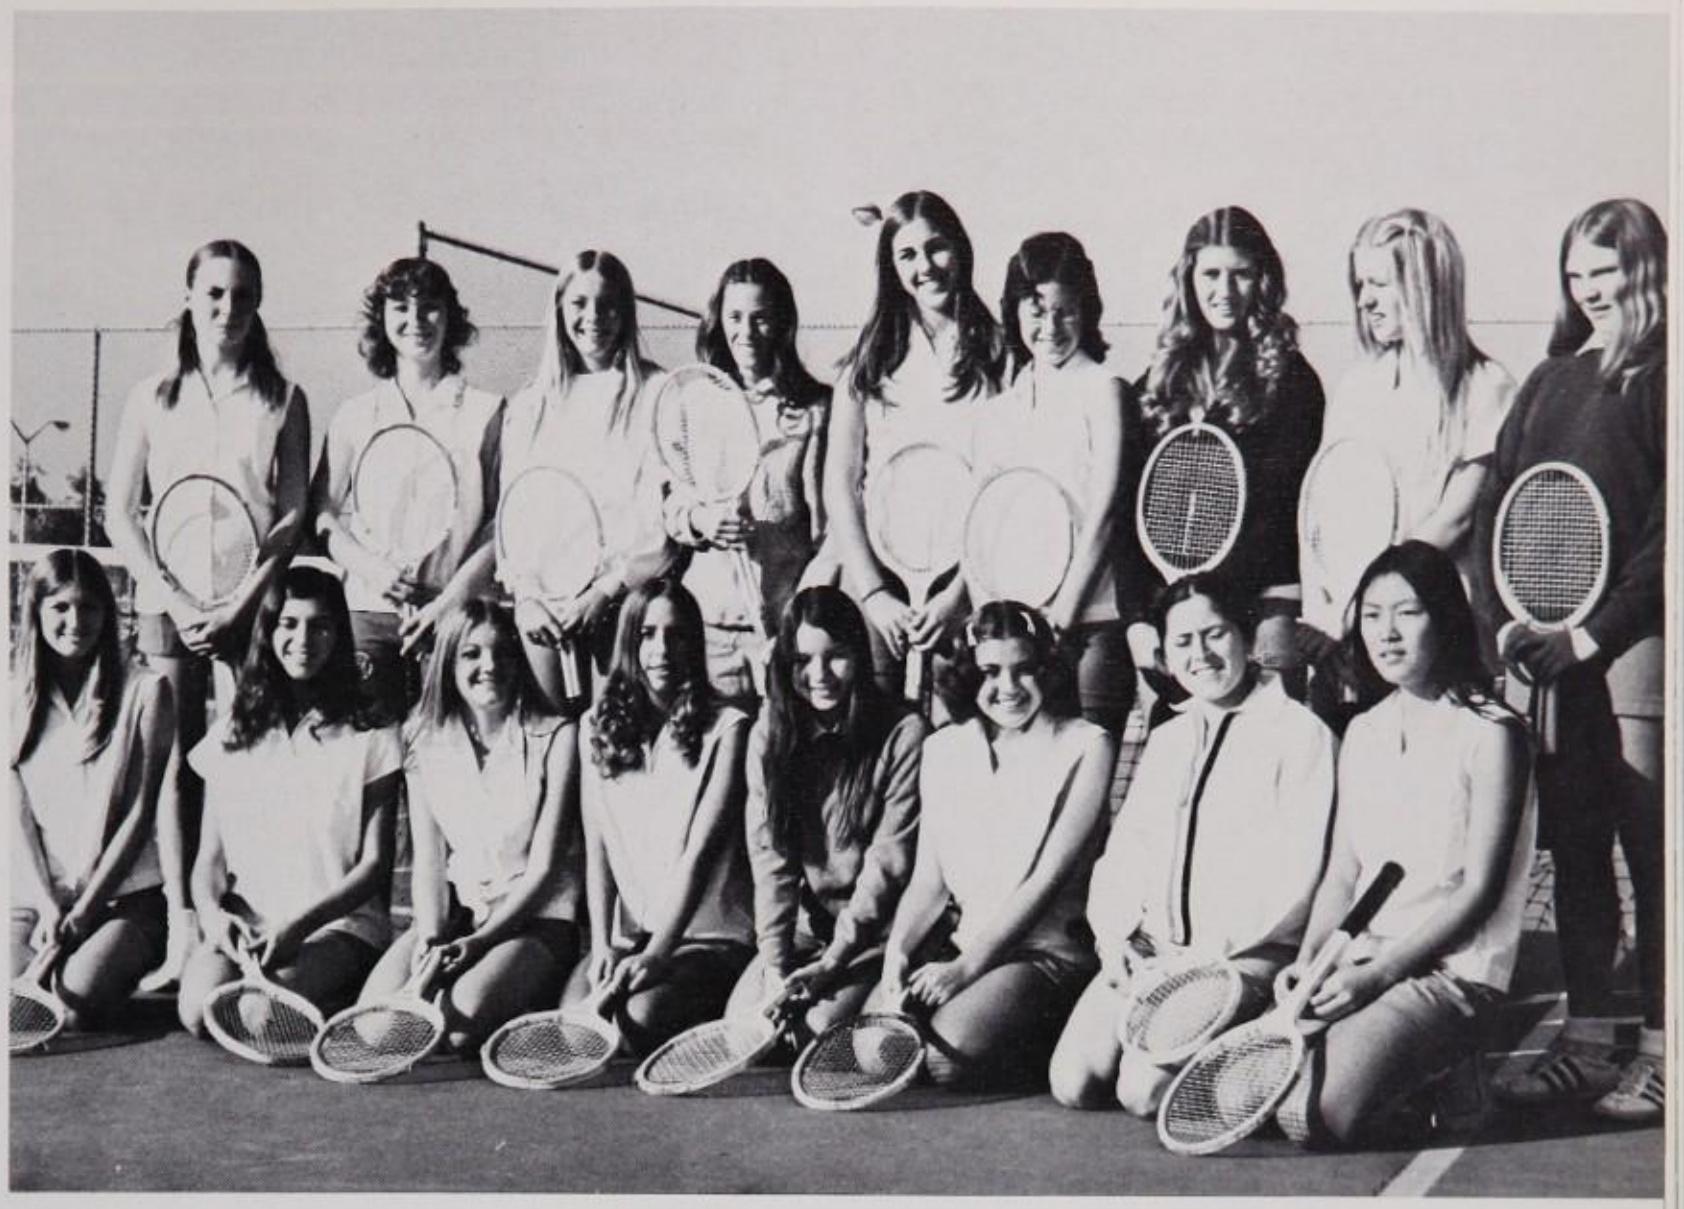
BELOW: Team I—Carol Mengert, Keleen Loeffler, Karen Zakeski, Sherri Morehouse, Jean Nelson, Terri McMurran, Sheri Hinsvark, Brooke Almond, Tammy Frank, Connie Bratkovitch, Terri Nissen, Crystal Almstadt, Becky Hill, Christi Charles, Audrey Chang, Gail Greenberg, Marti Malstrom, Tammara Torosian, Denise DePaul, Debbie Quang, Jeri Tisthammer, Sue Casey, Joanne Samawick, Anne Marshall, Mary Patterson, Nancy Phillips.





"It's hard getting anywhere, unless you were born again."

Terri Nissen

Sue Gardiner's tennis team fared well in after school competition, downing five opponents and losing to one. Seniors Keleen Loeffler and Sherri Morehouse and junior Jeri Tisthammer led the girls' teams to victories over El Modena, Saddleback, Estancia, and Santa Ana Valley. The net team's only defeat occurred against a tough Corona del Mar team.

ABOVE: Team II, Nydea Day, Bonnie Carey, Terri Leigler, Cyndi Farris, Pam Potter, Meredith Armstrong, Cheryl Racjic, Judy Almstadt, Robin Webber, Carol Ainley, Patti Meyers, Monique Michael, Cathy Bishof, Kelly Friedrickson, Kim McKauliff, Luz Otiniano, Tina Abe.

LEFT: In an invigorating game of tennis Beth Concoby lobbed tennis ball over net to her opponent.

Beginning with no direction— directing Doris to Bob & Jean's (which she never found)— finding Bruce's hotline— hotline to Pizza Man— Manny's at midnight and scandal about Rick— Rick's closet tricks— tricking Sage into getting an interview (uh, hard.)— hard to get anyone to clean the refrigerator— refrigerator painted gold— gold seal of approval— disapproval of Mark Spitz's 3-d swimming attire— attired in levi's always— always at A&J flirting with Ralph— Ralph's sour-dough bread and chocolate milk— milk a month old— old discussions about third quarter slumps— slumping through fourth quarter 'til the end of the year.
